Couldn't wait for the ambulance

by Jeff Nazzaro

It could be said that Jon-Luke Brian Dee came into the world in a breeze, or, a breezeway, at least.

Friday night, Ornella Dee gave birth to her second child, Jon-Luke, in the breezeway of the modest Shawsheen Avenue home she shares with her husband, Jimmy, and their 16-month-old son Matthew. The young couple has lived in Wilmington for five years.

Wilmington firefighters Linda Giles, David Woods, Gary Robichaud and Lt. John Brown, responding to a 911 emergency call from Ornella's brother-in-law Brian, helped deliver the 6-pound, 11-ounce baby boy after a labor of 23 minutes.

"The fire department was phenomenal. I couldn't have done a better job myself. I don't even think the hospital could've done a better job," Jimmy said, praising the town's new 911 service - which went on-line a week and two days before the birth - in the process. "I couldn't be happier," he said, referring to the town's service and, of course, to the birth of his second son.

Things didn't start off all that easy for the Dee's Friday, once Jimmy, with his pregnant wife's permission, headed to the FleetCenter for the Boston Celtics season opener against the Milwaukee Bucks.

At 8:00 that night, Ornella began experiencing mild contractions. At around 8:30, she said, she called her obstetrician, who told her not to worry, to monitor the contractions and call back if they worsened. The doctor's estimate was that the baby would probably come sometime over that weekend, about a week ahead of Ornella's Nov. 9 due date.

At around 9:00 she paged her husband at the FleetCenter and he called her. She told him what the doctor said and he went back to the game. Everything seemed fine.

Ornella's delivery of Matthew took some six hours, which isn't that long for labor, but is compared to what was in store for her second time around. Little Jon-Luke was in a hurry.

"He was determined to come out quick," she said. "No long labor for him."

At 10:00 she paged her husband again and told him the contractions were getting bigger and closer. He left the game.

Meanwhile, Jimmy's brothers, Brian, 26, and Kevin, 24, had gone from their home in Medford to their brother's house in Wilmington. They were intending to stay with Matthew while Jimmy took Ornella to Winchester Hospital to have the baby.

But Jon-Luke wasn't waiting for daddy. While Jimmy sat in post-game North Boston traffic, his brothers were loading his wife's things into the car. It never got that far. At around 10:50 p.m., Ordella's water broke and she was about to have her brothers-in-law drive her to the hospital, though she knew she wouldn't make it.

"We're going to have the baby here because I don't think I can make it to the hospital," she told them.

On the way to the garage, she collapsed in pain on the breezeway floor.

"I felt the baby coming out," she recalled.

Brian turned to Kevin and said (very calmly one can only assume) "CALL 911!"

Kevin did and within five minutes EMTs Giles and Woods, backed up by Robichaud and Brown in Engine 5, were there.

"It seems like an eternity when you're going through it, but they got here quick," Ornella reported, adding that they immediately soothed any apprehensions she had, assuring her "we've done this before."

"They made me feel very comfortable," she said. "I pushed once, let my body take over and on the second push the baby came out."

The 911 came in at 11:02. Twelve minutes later, Jon-Luke was in the world, healthy and on his way to Winchester with mom in the Wilmington Fire Department ambulance.

When Jimmy arrived home and saw the ambulance he drove up on his front lawn and rushed to see what was happening. Brian stopped him.

"Relax," he told Jimmy, "everything's fine. She had a boy." Jimmy wasn't convinced. Shocked is more like it.

"What do you mean she had a boy?" he asked before joining his wife and new baby for the ambulance ride to Winchester.

Jon-Luke's middle name came from his Uncle Brian, while Kevin will serve as Godfather. Mother and child spent two days in Winchester Hospital before returning home.

"I never expected it to happen so fast," Ornella said. "But everything worked out for the best."

Jimmy said that he plans on bringing Jon-Luke by the fire station to show him off to the department that helped deliver him.

For a woman in labor and two guys from Medford, 911 turned out to be just what was needed, according to Jimmy.

"Being able to dial the 911 and being able to contact the town that quick - right away the service has paid for itself."

The receipt is named Jon-Luke Brian Dee.

Principal search

And now there are two

by Ann Marie Casey

The search for a new Wilmington High School principal has been narrowed to two final candidates.

After receiving 18 applications for the principalship, none of which came from Wilmington residents or employees of the school system, the designated search committee selected two.

Both candidates are currently employed as assistant principals of public high schools - Mr. Robert Gillis at Gardner, MA and Mr. Robert Johnson at Randolph, MA.

Members of the search committee include parents Janet Cahill, Mary Lou Ferraro, and Kenneth Palm; teachers Virginia Blodgett, Barbara Mette, and Joyce Aldrich; and Wilmington High School junior Daniel Abbott. All members of the committee had applied and were selected by Peter Rock, Director of Administration and Finance, and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell.

At this time, the search committee has completed half of its agenda, having interviewed the candidates and visited the school districts where Gillis and Johnson work. The committee has now interacted with students, colleagues, and superintendents affiliated with both candidates.

Throughout the next phase, the committee will share their findings with Wilmington Superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell, and she will make the decision as to how the interviewing process will continue.

Superintendent O'Donnell had plans to meet with the screening committee on Wednesday, Nov. 8 at 4 p.m.

"Based on the discussion from [the committee's] assessment, I will deliberate on bringing the two candidates in, probably on Friday," concluded O'Donnell.

Those interviews, following O'Donnell's meeting with the search committee, will be the next step in the search.

Glitch names wrong man

by Jeff Nazzaro

In a case of computerized misidentification, a Wilmington man was incorrectly listed in the Wilmington Police Department logbook as having pled guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

That listing found was transcribed into the Town Crier's police news under "court updates," where it was printed that Herbert Mason, of 11 Nickerson Ave. had admitted to sufficient facts to be found guilty of OUI. In fact, Mason was not arrested by Wilmington Police, nor was he charged with any crime. He certainly did not admit to sufficient facts to be found guilty of a crime he was not arrested for nor charged with.

"It was our fault," Wilmington Deputy Chief of Police Bernard Nally said.

Mason was involved in a motor vehicle accident on Jan. 7, 1995 that was entered into the Wilmington Police log. By a clerical error, a court update for an OUI conviction was attached to that entry in the Wilmington Police computer system.

So how could such a thing happen?

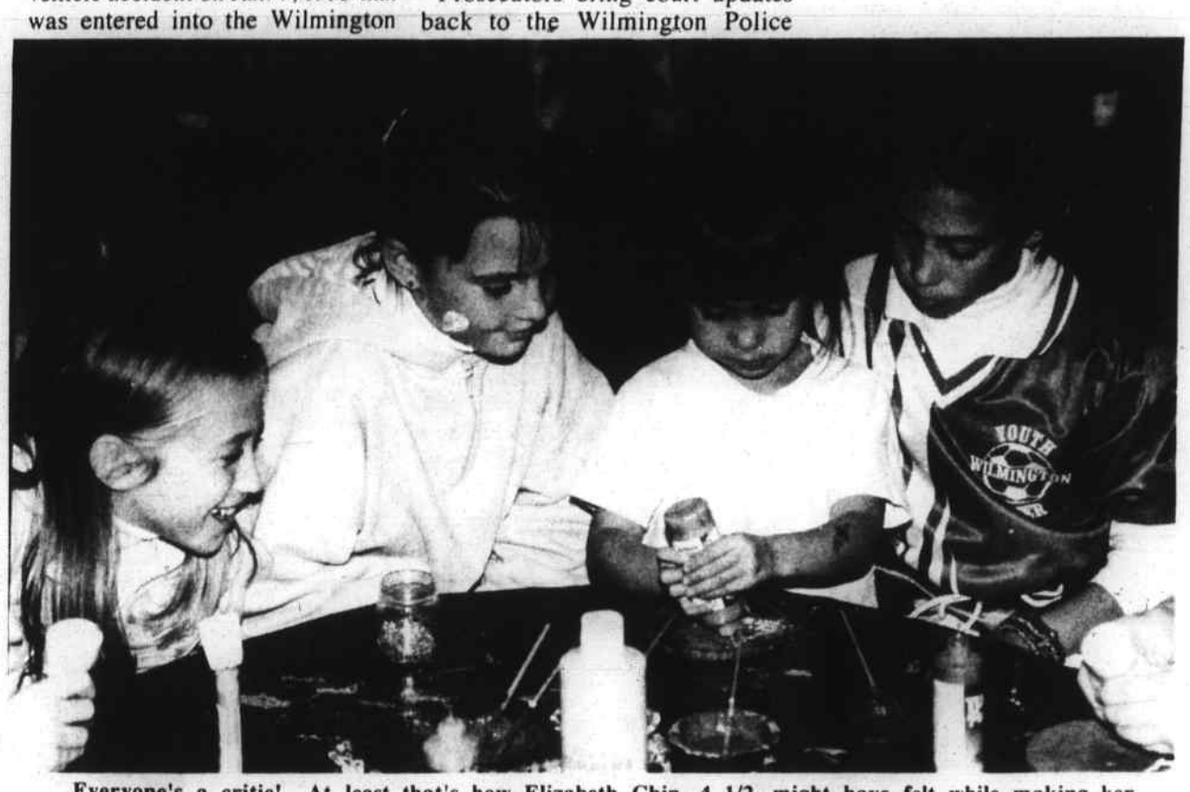

Incidents are entered by Wilmington Police according to year, with each case assigned a number. The number for the Jan. 7 auto accident is 1995-186. On Jan. 9 of 1990, Wilmington Police arrested a man for drunk driving. That case number, by coincidence, is 1990-186.

In 1990, Terrance O'Brien, 30, of 2 David Rd., Burlington, was arrested by Wilmington Police for driving under the influence of alcohol. At the time, Nally said, O'Brien gave police a phony name - Paul O'Brien. On Oct. 25, 1995, O'Brien admitted to sufficient facts to be found guilty of the offense. That information was forwarded by prosecutors to Wilmington Police.

Prosecutors bring court updates back to the Wilmington Police Department by hand, where they are entered into the computer and then printed in the log.

The clerk entered the right case number, 186, but for the wrong year, 1995. Part of the reason for that, Nally said, might have been that a new complaint was issued against O'Brien this year, with the 1990 docket number dropped, so the court had a 1995 docket number for O'Brien. But police files go back to the original arrest, which was in 1990.

With the erroneous entry, Mason's name was pulled up, with O'Brien's court update added to the entry for Mason's auto accident. Since motor vehicle accidents are sometimes linked to drunk driving arrests, everything appeared in order - except for the name printed in the log. There was no automobile accident in conjunction with O'Brien's 1990 arrest.

Main Street hearing Thursday

by Jeff Nazzaro

Due to a reporting error, the subject of the public hearing publicized in this space last week was incorrect. The hearing, scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 9 at 7:00 p.m. in the Town Hall Auditorium, will cover the proposed reconstruction of Route 38, from Route 129 to the Middlesex Avenue intersection, not the Route 62 bridge project.

The Route 38 reconstruction project will involve a widening of the road and is designed "to improve traffic operations and increase roadway safety for vehicles and pedestrians along the Route 38 corridor," according to Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, Inc., the engineering firm handling the design phase of the project.

The MassHighway Department, which will construct the project, will, along with engineers from Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, present the plans and answer any questions from residents. Preliminary design plans will be on display in the auditorium 30 minutes before the hearing, with engineers available for questions.

According to the design firm, "the Massachusetts Highway Department is committed to acquiring all necessary rights in public and private land." MassHighway's policy regarding land acquisition will be discussed at the hearing.

Tewksbury Police officer Jim Luz made the rounds for Halloween a little early this year... with officer Brad, Tewksbury's robot officer.

Officer Brad taught Halloween Safety

The Tewksbury Memorial High School Playschool, under the direction of Mrs. Anne McDermott, had a very different visitor last week. Officer Brad, the Robot who teaches children about safety and Officer Jim Luz, from the Tewksbury Police Department, paid a visit to the four and five-year-old children Tuesday, October 23.

Officer Brad spoke to the children about Halloween safety reminding parents and children to check candy received by the children while trick or treating. He also stressed the importance of carrying a light while walking from house to house.

The subject of strangers was discussed in detail. The children were told to holler, "I don't know you" if approached by a stranger. They should then run away from the stranger and go to the nearest house or adult and tell what has happened.

The preschoolers took turns hugging Officer Brad. During each hug, the Robot would laugh. The parents and younger siblings of the preschoolers also enjoyed the visit.

Many more exciting programs will be taking place at the Playschool. With the upcoming holidays, all sorts of lessons will be taught. At Thanksgiving, a turkey feast will be enjoyed. The children will make butter and cornbread, as well as cranberry sauce, to share at the dinner.

Celebrating American Education Week

The Tewksbury Public Schools have invited the community to participate in the many activities and programs which will take place in celebration of American Education Week. All schools will provide an opportunity for parents and community members to visit our schools and witness first hand the many fine educational initiatives which are underway in our classrooms.

Dewing School: Parent classroom visitation will take place Tuesday November 14 and Thursday, November 16 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and on the afternoon of Tuesday, November 14 from 1 to 2:30 for parents of students in the afternoon kindergarten classes. On Wednesday, November 15, the Dewing school will celebrate the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the school. The program begins at 8:15 a.m. and continues throughout the day with a variety of student performances.

North Street School: Parent visitations will be held Tuesday, Nov. 14 and Thursday, Nov. 16 from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. at the North Street and the Center Schools and at 1 p.m. at the Center School for parents of children attending the Center School Kindergarten.

The North Street Kindergarten classes will be conducting lessons comparing education in the days of the pilgrim children with present day education. Second grade students will visit the Massachusetts State House on November 13. This field trip is a concluding activity to the unit on government. North Street students will engage in many activities which acknowledge the celebration of this week as National Book Week. Examples include oral readings, written book reports and displays of student responses to open ended questions.

TAX-SHELTERED DIVORCE

Amid the financial negotiations that accompany divorce, it's smart to keep in mind how taxes will affect who gets what.

As a basic rule, alimony is deductible to the person who pays it and taxable to the one who gets it, but the couple can agree to avoid this situation by making the payment part of the property settlement. Conversely, some couples try to turn some property settlements and child support payments into deductible alimony and trip over IRS rules on how large early payments can be.

The spouse who gets appreciated property in a settlement will be liable for taxes on the gain when it is sold. If the property is a home, only the spouse living there can defer taxes by rolling the gain over to another property or take the tax $125,000 exclusion after age 55. Nor can the non-resident spouse deduct interest on the mortgage. Best bet may be to sell the house while both are living there, or make the mortgage payment part of alimony.

When big decisions have tax consequences, it's smart to consult the tax people at

Veterans Day is for celebrating

by Stu Neilson

Wallace Moore has been practicing.

It's been a couple of years since his stroke and he is now getting out and around the neighborhood, but recently it's been with a more determined step. You see, Wallace Moore is a veteran. A very proud veteran.

It all started the day he turned seventeen and a half. It was 1944 and the war was going full steam. He joined the Navy. Wallace was selected as a machinist's mate, although he had never worked on an engine before. In fact, his family had never even owned a car. But in short order he was a diesel mechanic, working on engines larger than a locomotive!

Wallace saw duty in the Pacific at the close of the war aboard an LST (Large Slow Target, oops! Make that Landing Ship, Tank). He was at Iwo Jima and Okinawa during the fighting. He survived the war and came home to find there was little or no work for a 19-year-old with no family to support. All the jobs went to vets with families. So it was back to the Navy for a few more years, then a short hitch in the reserves and then Korea popped up and he was recalled to active duty.

This time he served in the Atlantic teaching submarine rescue techniques, far from the action. Then he saw the Mediterranean aboard the U.S.S. Manchester, a brand new light cruiser. Excellent duty for a Machinist's Mate 1st Class.

By now you may be wondering what he has been practicing and why. He's been practicing walking. Walking so he can march in the 50th anniversary Veterans Day Parade in Wilmington.

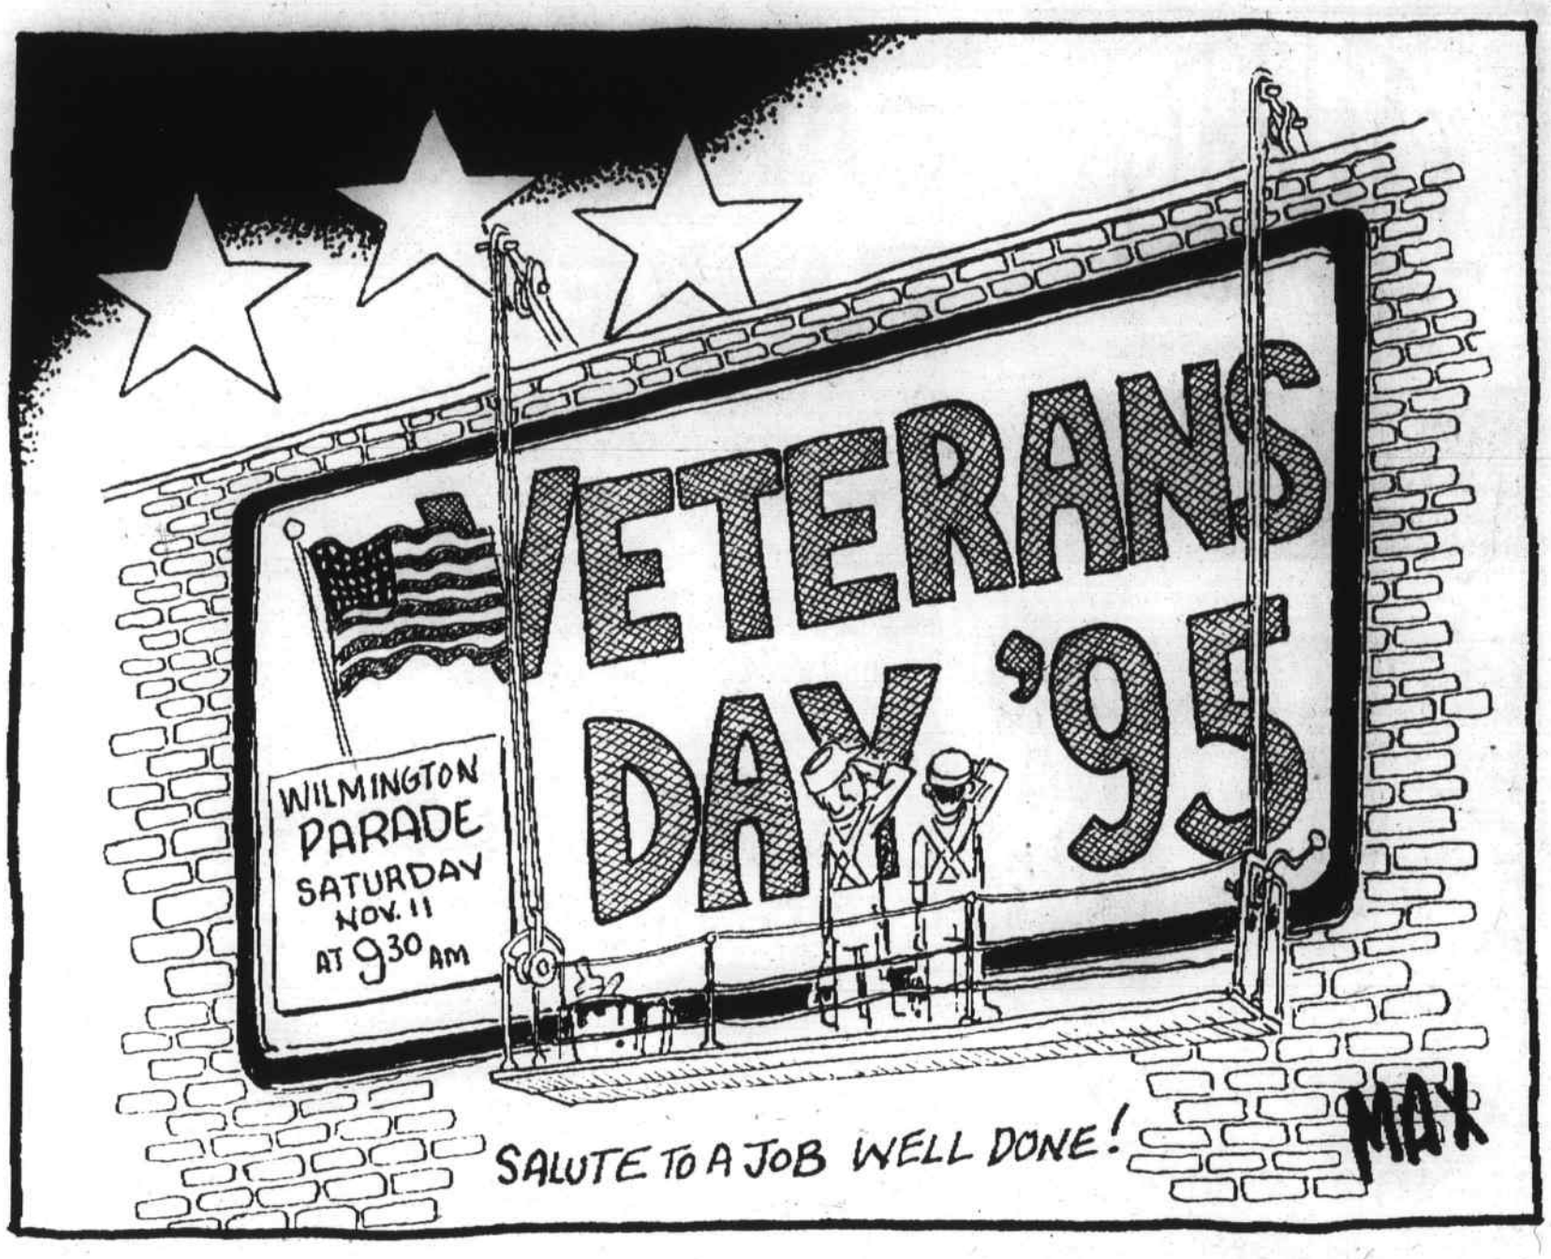

Come Saturday, Wallace Moore will be there. You can count on that.

He would like to count on you. He's been practicing his marching, after having a stroke. You can come to the parade. You can see him march. Then and only then you will be able to see how proud he is to have served in the U.S. Navy.

When you come to watch him march, he will be able to see how proud you are to have him as a neighbor.

And a tip of the hat to the Wilmington Lions Club for putting the parade and special supplement to the Town Crier together.

Well done!

Tewksbury Veterans Day Celebrations

The Tewksbury Patriotic Committee has invited all residents to attend the Veterans Day Ceremony to be held Saturday, Nov. 11 at the Wynn Middle School (formerly the Junior High School) on Victor Drive. Due to uncertain fall weather conditions the Patriotic Committee decided that conducting the ceremony indoors at the Wynn Middle School would be more comfortable for all attending.

This year, along with remembering veterans of all wars, there will be a special tribute to the World War II Veterans. There will be reserved seating for all WWII veterans receiving citations and Boy Scout Troop 322, will assist in the seating. Wayshak Hill, Capt. U.S. Air Force and Air Base Wing Quality Officer at Hanscom Air Force Base, will be the principal speaker. Special guests include Sen. John O'Brien, Rep. James Miceli, Rep. Edward LeLacheur, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Joan Dunlevy; along with other elected and appointed officials; DAV Post 110, VFW Post 8164, AMVETS, American Legion Post 259; VFW and DAV Women's Auxiliaries, Police Dept., Color Guard, Fire Dept., Color Guard, and the Memorial High School Band, Chorus and Color Guard, under the direction of Mr. Roger Whittlesey.

The Armistice was signed on the 11th day of the 11th month, at the 11th hour in 1918, drawing World War I to a close, with great jubilation.

Formerly known as Armistice Day, the U.S. Congress properly renamed this holiday Veterans Day in 1954, honoring all men and women who participated in other wars to keep America free.

Wilmington Veterans Day Celebrations

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Veterans' Day parade will commence on Saturday, Nov. 11 at 9:30 a.m. from the former Wilmington Ford site with marchers proceeding to the Town Common for exercises and reflections commemorating the 50th Anniversary of the end of World War II.

The parade, sponsored by the Wilmington Lions Club, will feature Uncle Sam, the American Legion Color Guard, the Army/Army Air Corps WWII Veterans, the Wilmington High School marching band, state and local politicians and an antique car in the first division.

The second division will be comprised of the VFW Color Guard, Navy WWII veterans, Stuarts Highlanders Band, the Wilmington Historical Commission, National Park characters and another antique car.

The Marine Corps Color Guard will lead the third division, followed by Marine and nurse WWII veterans, the UMass Lowell marching band, the Wilmington Fourth of July Committee and an antique car.

The Wilmington Minutemen Color Guard start the fourth division, followed by members of the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the Kiwanis Club and Wilmington Seniors, with army vehicles bringing up the rear.

Once on the common, photos of Wilmington's WWII veterans from the collection of George Spanos, along with photos supplied by the historical commission depicting life on the home front will be displayed until 1:00.

At 11:00 will begin Veterans' Day exercises, with the laying of wreaths and speeches from politicians.

Route 38 - from the plaza to the Route 62 intersection - will be blocked off from 9:30 until approximately 10:30 a.m., after which Church Street will be blocked. The Wilmington Plaza will still be accessible from the rear, Safety Officer Bob Shelley said.

Letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

This past week, my mother sent me the Oct. 18 issue of the Town Crier. I must say I was disheartened to see that the MVC has decided to cancel the Wilmington vs. Tewksbury Thanksgiving Day matchup after this year.

As a lifelong resident of Wilmington, and a WHS alumni, I am greatly disappointed at the decision of the MVC.

Perhaps the most disappointing part of the end of the rivalry is I will not be able to make this year's game. I'm away at graduate school and won't be able to be home for the game.

The Thanksgiving game was always an exciting game, no matter how bad either team was. I remember one of the games when I was in high school where Wilmington went into Tewksbury a heavy underdog, and lost one of the best played games I'd ever seen all year, 7-6.

I feel the MVC has erred in this decision. Ending a 60-year rivalry because Wilmington has moved to the Cape Ann League is ridiculous. I hope Wilmington will be able to find a new team to play on Thanksgiving. Even if Wilmington does find a new team to play, the rivalry will never be the same.

Sincerely,
Kevin Yetman
Graduate student

Letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

The best we can do is spend time with our kids. And while it gives us a second chance to experience life as we always wanted it, we don't get another chance when the kids grow older and leave home. Many thanks for your support during the wonderful week when so many from Wilmington opened their homes, and gave their time so generously, to the students from Holmfirth, England. It was a selfless moment for the benefit of our children. The people of Wilmington created a memory that their kids will always treasure.

And Jeff Nazzaro chronicled the final night so beautifully, capturing a moment in time that will long be remembered. If something is worth doing, it's worth sharing, and the list of everyone who shared their time, and their gifts, for the benefit of their kids, is seemingly endless.

The true spirit of your town lies in the hearts of its people. And Wilmington has shown that it has a heart of gold.

Deepest thanks to a very special community.

The Bride's Closet

Stephanie Pearson of The Bride's Closet

It's the personal service that makes The Bride's Closet different from many other bridal shops. "Some girls tell me they feel lost at the bigger shops," says owner Stephanie Pearson. "Here, we take the time to make sure everything is put together perfectly – from start to finish." Pearson, a Wilmington resident, draws her knowledge from retail experience and a B.A. in fashion merchandising.

The Bride's Closet opened originally as a bridal consignment shop. Now, it carries only new products... the latest in bridal fashions, a large selection of headpieces and veils, matching jewelry and accessories, undergarments (they rent petticoats) and dyeable shoes, as well as bridesmaids and mothers' gowns. You can even order your invitations (discounted 20%) and rent the tuxedos.

"Some people have the misconception that small shops are more expensive," says Pearson, "but our gowns are moderately priced (starting at $398), plus we offer free layaway and gown storage."

The Bride's Closet is located in Wilmington at 668 Main St., Rt. 38 in Webber Terrace. They're open Tues. & Thurs. 12-8, Wed. & Fri. 11-6, and Sat. 10-4. Appointments are recommended, but drop-ins are always welcome.

Wilmington Memorial Public Library notes

Children's book week

The Children's Dept. will be celebrating Children's Book Week November 13-19 with book displays, reading posters, a new program for children nine and up and the completion of the latest session of the popular Story Hour program for preschoolers.

For five to eight year olds, there will be a book display of enjoyable early chapter books. Check out the display to help your child make the transition from picture books to chapter books an easy and enjoyable one.

The preschool story hour participants have enjoyed a variety of children's books but one of their favorites was Five Little Monkeys Jumping on the Bed by Eileen Christlelow. The conference room is still ringing with their chanting of this popular rhyme. The final session will be Friday. Registration for the next program will begin January 8.

Saturday, Nov. 18 from 9:15 to 10:15 a.m., the junior book discussion group will meet for its first session. An opportunity to read brand new books, share old favorites, and publish a club review will be featured. A name for the club will be chosen by participants in this first monthly session. Call the Children's Dept. at 658-2967 to register.

Bookends, December 7

The library's informal book discussion group will meet Thursday evening, December 7 at 7 p.m. in the Conference Room to discuss Anna Quinlan's One True Thing. Call the library to reserve a copy.

Favorite authors

November 1 was National Authors' Day and the library asked patrons at the circulation desk to write down the name of their favorite author. Besides the names of contemporary popular authors such as John Grisham, Mary Higgins Clark, Danielle Steele, George Higgins, Stephen King, Robert Parker, Tony Hillerman, Deepak Chopra and Robert Ludlom among others; Charles Dickens, Jane Austen, Mark Twain, J.R. Tolkien, Edith Wharton, Immanuel Kent, Dostoyevsky, and Bruce Catton found a place on the list.

Young adult tastes were also represented by R.L. Stine, Laurence Yep, and Ronald Dahl as well as by Agatha Christie who was the favorite of many. Wilmington readers cover a wide spectrum of tastes, and books by all of these authors can be found on the shelves.

Care of the newborn

Winchester Hospital offers a course on how to care for newborns. The course is designed to teach prospective parents skills necessary to comfortably care for a newborn. Infant behavior, needs, safety, feeding are just a few of the topics.

The class is offered on two consecutive Mondays at Baldwin Park II in Woburn from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

For information and registration call 617-756-2220.

Bassist Charles McCawley, 61 Randolph Dr., Tewksbury rehearses with the Concord Orchestra for its upcoming performance of Hansel and Gretel.

Tewksbury man to perform with Concord Orchestra

Bassist Charles McCawley of Randolph Drive, Tewksbury will perform with the Concord Orchestra when Hansel and Gretel, the familiar children's tale written by the Brothers Grimm and transformed into a beautiful musical story by Englebert Humperdinck, is performed as a concert opera by the Concord Orchestra Sunday, December 3. The performance, which is suitable for the entire family, will be at 3 p.m. at the Mediplex Auditorium on Route 2, across from Emerson Hospital, Concord.

The opera, which is richly scored for soloists and children's chorus, will include appearances by soprano Margaret O'Keefe as Gretel, mezzo soprano Lynn Torgrove as Hansel, contralto Marion Dry as the witch, mezzo Gale Fuller as Gertrude, baritone David Murray as Peter, and soprano Jami Rogers as the dew fairy and sandman. The concert will not be fully staged, but the singers will be costumed.

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders from Libby Hunter's Concord Middle School Chorus will also be featured in the performance, which will be sung in English. Richard Pittman, Music Director of the Concord Orchestra, will be conducting.

Tickets for Hansel and Gretel are $10 for adults, $8 for seniors and $6 for children/students, and can be obtained at the Minor Chord, Needle Arts, Books with a Past, or by calling 508-369-4967.

Mail early, mail often and Win!

One of the Postal Service's most difficult challenges is to ensure all customers are able to send their holiday wishes to friends and loved ones in time for the holidays. This is because of the phenomenal volume of cards, letters and packages sent through the mail, often times at the last possible moment. The Postal Service is confident it will again meet that challenge, ensuring your friends and loved ones receive your important greetings.

The Tewksbury Post Office, as an incentive for customers to make the task a little easier, is offering a chance to win a $50 gift certificate for customers who mail 10 or more holiday greeting cards at one time before the close of business (5:30 p.m.) on Saturday, December 9, 1995. Simply go in to the Tewksbury Post Office and mail 10 or more holiday greeting cards and you will be provided an entry slip to fill out. That slip will be entered into a fish bowl, and on Monday, December 11, TPO will draw the winner at noon. That winner will receive a gift certificate for $50 for the Picadilly Pub & Restaurant on Main Street in Tewksbury.

Stone's in the Garden

Forcing bulbs for an early spring

by Jackie Leszczak-Stone

The easiest way to put some spring into the winter months is to begin forcing spring bulbs now for indoor bloom. Forcing bulbs into blossom is really just a way of fooling Mother Nature. In the garden bulbs need a period of cold, followed by a gradual warming, then followed by sunny warmth. Daffodils (Narcissus) are a good example. They need the rest period of our cold winters to bloom. In fact, most daffodil varieties cannot survive in the southern states. (Warm climates do have some draw backs.)

Among the easiest bulbs to coax into bloom are tender bulbs including amaryllis and paper white narcissus. These bulbs virtually bloom on their own. Plant an Amaryllis (Hippeastrum) bulb in a deep pot, give it some water and some direct sunlight in a warm spot (70° during the day). In four to five weeks you will enjoy spectacular blossoms. Some staking may be necessary as flower can be top heavy. After blooming the foliage remains through the summer. The plants will go dormant for a month or two and then they can be repotted for another display.

Paper whites require the same treatment, but they look best planted in shallow pots in groups of five or more. They require only 60°F daytime temperatures and will fill your home with fragrance in four weeks. Again, be prepared to stake them, especially if they are grown out of direct sunlight. (Unlike amaryllis, paper whites will bloom only once...but they are worth it!)

Hardy bulbs, daffodils, crocus, tulips and hyacinth really need to be fooled into blossom. Crocus can be potted in a shallow dish in groups of 10. Place the pot in a cool garage for two weeks then take them into the house. They will bloom in just a week or two. You can have them all winter by continually repeating this process. Grape hyacinth and hyacinth can be treated in the same manner as crocus, but they need three to four weeks of cold dormancy. Individual hyacinth bulbs can also be forced without soil in a hyacinth jar filled with water. The kids love to watch this unfold.

Hardy daffodils and tulips require five to six weeks of cold dormancy. They can be potted and left in the garage or place the pots in the garden protected by a thick layer of straw. The straw will insulate them and prevent them from freezing. After five weeks take them into a cool area and then into a brighter, warmer location as the flowers develop. (Just a hint...I have found that dwarf daffodils and early and/or dwarf tulips are easier to force than large varieties.

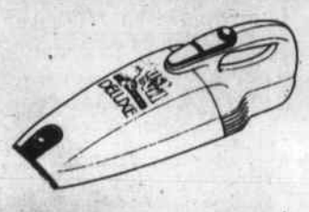

Those who have never tried forcing blubs are encouraged to try it, just once.

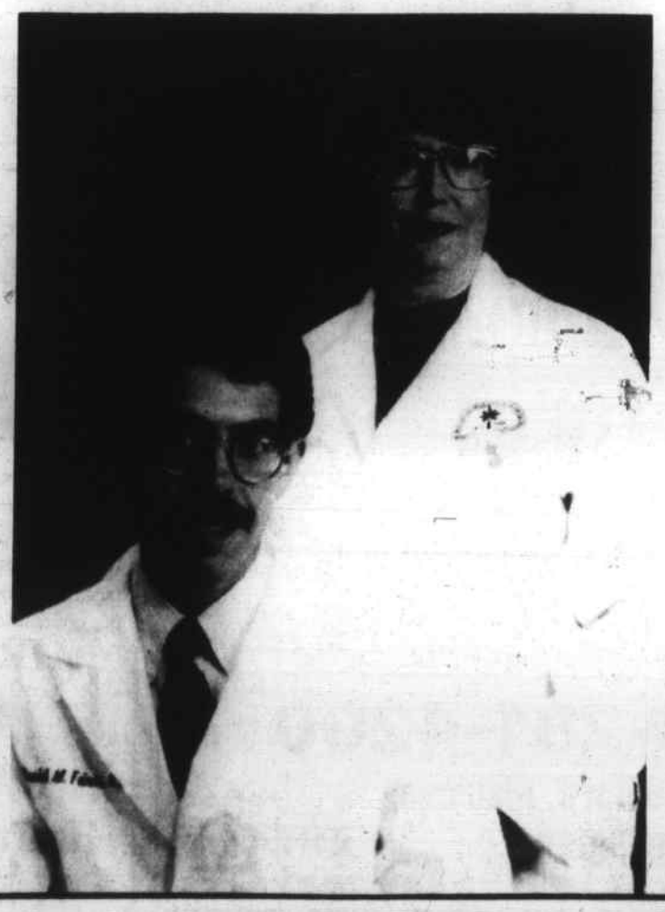

The growth process will mesmerize you and there is no better way to beat Jack Frost's winter blues.

Tewksbury vs. Wilmington in a battle of the food pantry collection drives

by Jeff Nazzaro

Students from Tewksbury and Wilmington will be locked in a provisional competition this month even before their favorite football players do battle on the gridiron Thanksgiving Day.

The student councils of both town's high schools have organized town-wide food drives from Nov. 13 through Nov. 17, and, with this being perhaps the last Turkey Day match-up between the 60-year rivals, spirit, emotions, competition, and runs on Spam at local grocery stores are running high.

"We want to win because it's the last game," says WHS Student Councillor Tracy Selig, a junior. "We don't get to play Tewksbury again."

TMHS Student Council Co-President senior Heidi Mahorg and Food Drive Chairperson Jill Moore, a junior, are equally adamant about winning the friendly food competition with their neighbors and rivals from Wilmington.

But all involved agree this is just a fun way to help less fortunate people in both towns. All food collected at WHS will be donated to the Wilmington Food Pantry, while items brought to TMHS will be given to the Community Food Pantry in Tewksbury.

All food collected be taken in trucks and weighed, with the winning town announced at this year's Tewksbury-Wilmington football game, to be played at Tewksbury's Doucette Field.

With weight, not volume, being the determining factor, bring heavy food. Barring that, bring a lot, and encourage friends and neighbors to do the same. If you are a student at the high school, offer to bring food items from neighbors to school with you.

Or, paint yourself blue-and-white, or blue-and-red (whichever colors may suit your loyalties) and try organizing a neighborhood food drive - anything to help your school, your town win what will be the most important game in both towns.

The competition is not limited to students in either town. All residents are encouraged to bring non-perishable food items to their town's high school.

"We're trying to get the community involved," Mahorg said. "In the past the food drive hasn't been successful at all. This is just a way of getting the community involved and helping the less fortunate."

And what better way than through a 60-year Thanksgiving Day football rivalry - six decades of food and competition between the towns of Tewksbury and Wilmington.

Speaker of the House, Charles Flaherty, Representative James R. Miceli, and Senator Bruce Tarr met with representatives from the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Jane Fudge, Kenneth Mastrullo, Sandy Murphy and Jim Mahoney during the Annual Chamber of Commerce Day in the Massachusetts State House.

Wilmington Special Town Meeting -- preview of articles

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Planning Board and Finance Committee held a joint public hearing to review and discuss the 16 articles slated for the Dec. 4 Special Town Meeting before going their separate ways to vote recommendations for or against each proposal.

Both boards agreed in their respective recommendations. The planning board took up the five zoning articles to be presented, while the FinCom voted on all 16. The following is a look at each article, how the boards voted, and key points of discussion, if any.

Of course, board recommendations amount to just that - recommendations. Town voters decide for themselves Dec. 4 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Wilmington High School's Barrows Auditorium.

• Article 1: The raising and appropriation by taxation or transfer from available funds in the fiscal year 1996 budget the additional sum of $149,625 to the Wilmington School Department, raising the school budget to $14,602,973.

This move is in accordance with raises in school budgets mandated by the Education Reform Act. The finance committee unanimously recommended approval.

• Article 2: The raising or transfer of $72,066 to the town's reserve account, bringing the total appropriation for that fund to $172,066. The finance committee recommended approval unanimously.

• Article 3: To see if the town will authorize the town treasurer to establish a revolving fund in accordance with Mass. Gen. Law Chapter 44, Section 53E 1/2 for a compost bin recycling program and to also establish a spending limit for that account. Finance committee unanimously recommended approval.

• Article 4: The appropriation from available funds the sum of $579,260 to the DPW, Chapter 90 Construction Fund Account. Unanimous approval recommended by the finance committee.

• Article 5: The raising and appropriating by taxation or transfer the additional sum of $40,000 to the Sewer Maintenance Account, raising the total appropriation to $72,710. FinCom recommended approval by a unanimous vote.

• Article 6: To see if the town will vote to raise and appropriate by taxation or transfer the sum of $20,700 to maturing debt and interest - sewer for the purpose of a loan repayment to the MWRA for the infiltration/inflow program. Finance committee recommended approval unanimously.

• Article 7: Appropriation of a sum of money for the "Webber Street Sewer Project," involving the design and construction of sewers, sewage systems and disposal facilities in Webber Street, starting at Cedar Street and extending approximately 600 feet. A copy of the plan is on file in the office of the Superintendent of Water and Sewer. Finance committee unanimously recommended approval.

• Article 8: To authorize selectmen to grant an easement to the Town of North Reading to allow access over Wilmington land to a water treatment plant built in North Reading. Finance committee recommended approval unanimously.

• Article 9: Would authorize selectmen and/or the town manager to petition the State Legislature for an act providing group insurance benefits for certain surviving spouses of deceased or retired employees of the Town of Wilmington. This article would allow for payment of $7,761, as appropriated at the 1994 Annual Town Meeting, to Mary Fuller, the widow of former Wilmington police officer George Fuller. It would also make legal all such payments made in the past by the town. The finance committee, by a vote of 3-4, with one abstention, voted against approval.

• Article 10: Drafted by town counsel to bolster Article 9. Approval denied by the FinCom via a 1-5 vote, with two members abstaining.

• Article 11: A planning board "housekeeping" article designed to bring the town zoning by-law table in conformance with the by-law amendment passed at the 1993 Annual Town Meeting. Both boards recommended approval by unanimous votes.

• Article 12: A petitioned article asking to amend the zoning by-laws to rezone a parcel of land on Butters Row from R-60 to R-20. The petitioner was not present at the hearing or the subsequent planning board meeting. The planning board, citing the fact that the proposed "1-lot rezoning" would "intrude into the integrity of an existing R-60 zone, voted 3-0 against approval, with one member abstaining. Based on the planning board decision, the FinCom voted unanimously against approval.

• Article 13: Would allow, by Special Permit, limited service restaurants in general industrial districts. Local business owner Jim Mahoney petitioned for this article in the hopes of providing restaurant service for employees in the Ballardvale/Andover streets industrial zone. If voted, any permits will be subject to special criteria - compromises reached between Mahoney and the planning board in drafting the final article. The planning board voted unanimous approval without discussion and the FinCom followed suit.

• Article 14: A petitioned attempt from Uncle Mickey's store on Shawsheen Avenue to install seating by changing its "Limited Service Restaurant" status to "SP" (Special Permit). Acting Planning Board Chairman Carole Hamilton called it "much less of an article than we would have expected" in leading the argument at the public hearing against approval. The board later voted unanimously, without further discussion, disapproval of the article.

• Article 15: A second attempt by Woburn Street resident Robert Williams to rezone his property, which abuts the Woburn Street School, from R-20 to R-10. At April's Annual Town Meeting, despite negative recommendations from both the finance committee and planning board, Williams' bid was approved, only to be shot down by the attorney general's office as spot zoning.

This time, Williams, by petition once again, will try to rezone five parcels across Woburn Street to R-10 in an attempt to avoid spot zoning. The planning board still saw the attempt as possible spot zoning and voted unanimously against the proposal. The finance committee voted 6-2 against recommending the article.

• Article 16: A proposal to implement the "Quinn Bill," a measure which pays police officers incentives based on a percentage of salary for earning academic degrees related to police work. The town currently pays incentives, but as a flat amount, not calculated as a percentage of salary. Town Manager Michael Caira, in opposing the article, said "This is a matter for collective bargaining and we should not be taking it up at town meeting.

The finance committee recommended disapproval by a unanimous vote.

Alliance finishing up new Youth Center

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Alliance for Wilmington Youth is poised to put the finishing touches on its Wilmington Youth Center, located in Villanova Hall.

The group is hard at work in the center every Tuesday and Thursday night, from 6-9 p.m. But despite a steady flow of support from the community in the form of funds, materials and labor, more of all of the above is still needed to wrap things up and give the kids of Wilmington a place of their own.

The Alliance will hold a meeting Tuesday, Nov. 14 in Villanova Hall for the purpose of updating the community, gathering more support and finalizing plans for opening the center.

For now, the Alliance would like to thank the long list of donors and volunteers who have made progress on the center, which is fast becoming a reality, possible. They are:

Assisted living facility

Pines of Tewksbury opens soon

The Pines of Tewksbury, a residential assisted living retirement community, will open December 1 at 2580 Main Street on Route 38 at the Wilmington line. The community features one-floor living with 50 studio apartments and more than a dozen common areas for activities and socializing. There are secured outdoor courtyards and glass passageways to enjoy the landscape in every season.

In this assisted living community, residents receive assistance with bathing, dressing, walking, or medication monitoring, or other activities of daily living as needed. A registered nurse, who serves as the resident care director, will oversee a care plan based on each resident's individual needs. Certified staff will be on site 24 hours a day to assist residents as needed.

Other services include transportation to medical appointments, shopping, and recreational activities, on site activities each day, an emergency call system for residents, three meals served in a dining room, wellness programs, and housekeeping, linen, and laundry service. There will also be a gift shop and hair salon on site.

In addition to the full service assisted living program, there will be an independent program modified for those who do not need assistance, but want the security and socialization opportunities assisted living provides. There is also the Morningside Program in a secured building for those with early stages of Alzheimer's or other memory-related disorders.

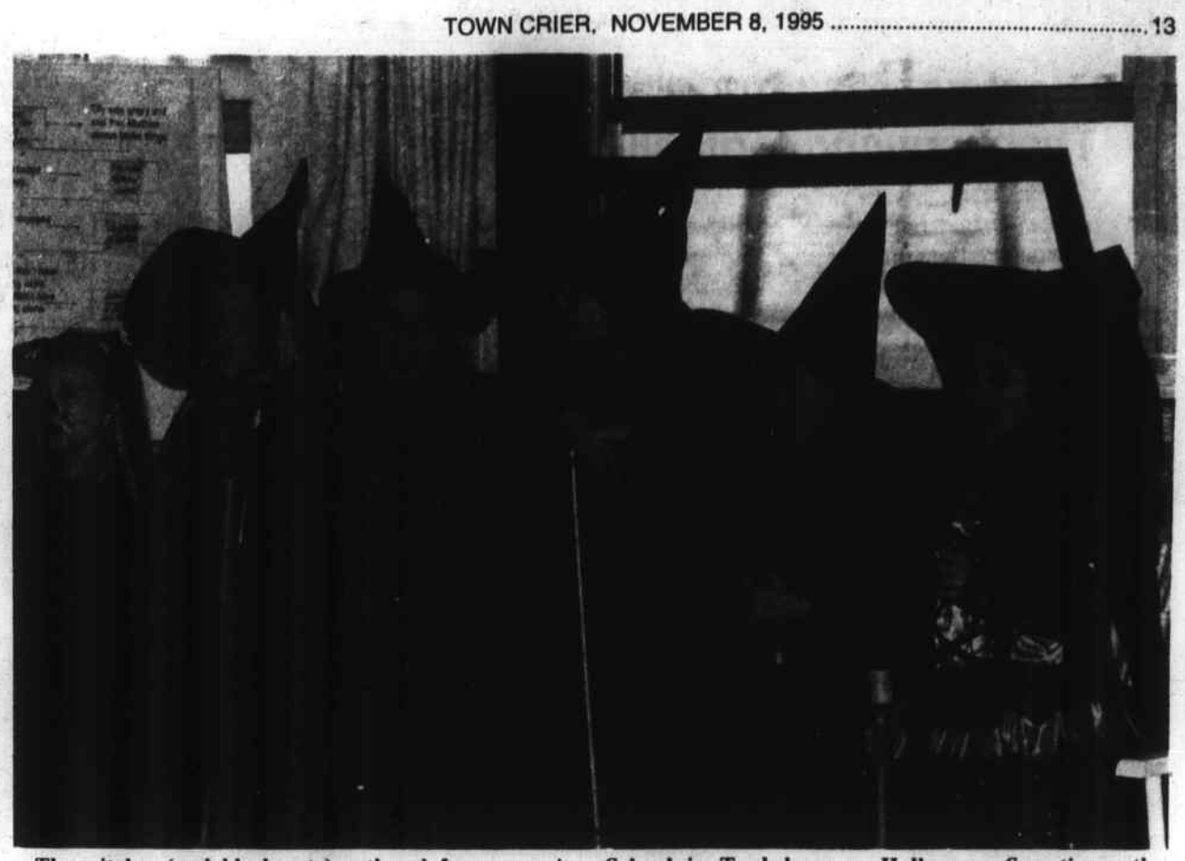

Respite care will also be available for short term stays in a beautifully furnished suite, for families taking care of a loved one who are going on vacation or who cannot physically take care of someone else for a short period. It also provides a mini-vacation for the guest, who may need a change of atmosphere or some opportunities for socializing with their peers.

"What makes our community unique," and Beth I. Gandelman, Director for Community Relations,: is the total focus on the residents. There activities program will be designed around their hobbies and capabilities. They can even take on a volunteer position or help with teaching an activity. We will find ways to incorporate everyone's skills or talents so everyone feels important within our community. Even in the Morningside Program, residents perform activities related to their former careers as part of life skills and reminiscent activities. Our resident council will serve as a voice within the community."

Assisted living brings together the best of health related services with hospitality services, for one monthly fee. In many cases, residents can avoid long term nursing home stays, or delay entering a nursing home, because the necessary services are provided in this environment. "The focus is on seeing that each resident's dignity and appropriate level of independence are maintained." Gandelman added.

The Pines of Tewksbury is managed by The Standish Care Company, based in Burlington, who owns or operates 22 similar communities throughout the East Coast.

Reservations are now being accepted. For more information about The Pines, call (508) 657-0800. Furnished models are available for viewing weekends,weekdays, and evenings.

North Street School news

First graders in Mrs. Ventura's and Mrs. Adams' class at the North Street School in Tewksbury have taken an imaginary field trip to Giverny, France to visit the garden of the famous French impressionist, Claude Monet. Through the use of children's literature, A Blue Butterfly, A Story About Claude Monet by Bijou LeTord and children's video,Linnea in Monet's Garden based on the book by Christina Bijork and Lena Anderson the students were able to close their eyes and imagine they were visiting this famous garden which was the inspiration of many of Monet's paintings. The children learned many interesting facts about Monet, for instance, he liked to paint his "impression" of many things, not how they might have looked if you took a photograph of them. He was unlike many of his fellow artists of his time who were referred to as realists.

The children created their own works of art through the medium of watercolors and cut and past collage. Just like Monet they produced their "impression" of the flowers and water they saw in his garden. Children's enthusiasm for their accomplishments was evident in their taking ownership of their work when they needed to choose a piece for the Monet bulletin board. Pride was revealed in their discussions with classmates.The first graders have been studying about plants in science. This is just one example of how the arts can correlate with other classroom disciplines.

Since writing across the curriculum is a goal for the Tewksbury schools this lesson inspired the students to write poetry to illustrate their art. A lesson on how to write thank you letters was also conducted to thank Mrs. Unger, who is first grade student Rhiannon Unger's grandmother, for donating the video Linnea in Monet's Garden to the North Street School.

Mrs. Ventura is currently attending Lesley College where she plans to earn a Master of Education Degree in Curriculum and Instruction with a specialization in Creative Arts. She believes integrating the arts, poetry, drama, storytelling, visual art and movement into the curriculum is an essential part of education.

At least she's not marrying the boss

Eat your hearts out, gentlemen.

Shannon Doherty, the lovely brunette behind the front counter at the Planning & Conservation office, is officially out of circulation.

October 30 was a busy day for Shannon (no relation whatsoever to TV's bad girl). Not only was it her 26th birthday, but her beau of five years, firefighter David Woods of Wilmington, asked for her hand in marriage and she consented.

She said David popped the big question in Grafton, N.H., where the two met five years ago. Vows will be exchanged on May 4.

At least Shannon isn't marrying her boss, which happened to Debbie Brazee, the previous secretary in the planning board office. Charlie and Debbie Frederiksen now live in Houston, Texas.

RESPONDING TO A "LOW BALL"
In every real estate market, there are buyers who make offers that are way below the current market value. How should you react if your agent brings you one of these "low balls"?
You can tell the buyers that you cannot accept their offer, and be reasonably confident that a better offer will follow, if you know that your home is priced well. In a buyers' market, however, you may not have that luxury. Try to get some idea of the buyer's overall strategy, and ask your Realtor for advice. Have they made low offers on other properties? Do they love your house, or will they move on to try another property if you make a counter offer? Can they afford to pay a higher price? Are there ways to close the gap with a small owner take-back, or with terms that will increase your bottom line? It may also be necessary to take a hard look at your asking price. If you are on the high side, the offer may not be that unreasonable. The one strategy we don't recommend is "just saying no" to a low offer until you have explored all the options.

School boards struggle to keep Thanksgiving football game

by Jeff Nazzaro

With the reality that this year's Thankgiving Day football game between Tewksbury and Wilmington will likely be the last after 60 years of rivalry, school committee's from both towns are trying to figure a way to restore the rivalry.

November 25, the Wilmington School Committee voted unanimously to restore the game, sending a copy of their resolution to their colleagues in Tewksbury. Last Wednesday, Tewksbury School Committee Member Ed Doherty used that resolution as a springboard to ask Tewksbury High School Athletic Director Mickey Sullivan two basic questions: why is the rivalry ending and what can be done to preserve it?

"I would like to try to get the Thanksgiving Day game restored," Doherty told Sullivan. "I would like to see us play Wilmington. What do we do?"

Sullivan's answer appeared to be that nothing can be done about playing Wilmington on Thanksgiving after this year. He did say he has offered to play Wilmington in the first game of each season.

But Doherty, and most residents of both towns who have expressed opinions on the matter, wants the game and wants it on Thanksgiving, where its been since 1935.

"Are you saying that you're commitment is to play on Thanksgiving Day?" Sullivan asked after giving notice of his opening day offer to Wilmington.

"I'm saying we're committed for 60 years," Doherty shot back.

Last month, MVC athletic directors voted 9-1, with Sullivan abstaining, to cancel the Tewksbury-Wilmington game after this year. According to Sullivan, MVC member schools are obligated constitutionally to other member schools first.

MVC school Haverhill, which had been playing Salem, N.H., has wanted a league opponent for Thanksgiving since entering the MVC. This year they got it, being paired with Central Catholic beginning in 1996. Central had been playing Andover, who will now hook-up with Tewksbury, leaving Wilmington out in the cold.

Wilmington apparently sealed its own fate, and that of the rivalry, when it petitioned successfully and joined the Cape Ann League, starting this fall. That gave the MVC the impetus to shake up its match-ups to accommodate Haverhill.

But Doherty, for one, is not happy with the MVC's decision and last Wednesday questioned Sullivan about his role in the move, particularly why Sullivan proposed that Tewksbury play Andover.

Sullivan said he basically had no choice and offered the proposal to "cut the losses," in this case, the loss of Wilmington.

"I thought the next best thing for the conference and the community, and my first concern was the community, was to [play] Andover, which borders us...." Sullivan said. "We ended up with a great opponent in Andover, which is a similar sized community to ours and who is going to stay in the MVC....

"They had the constitution hanging over my head saying 'look it, you have an obligation to fill an opponent on Thanksgiving and its a league opponent and when Wilmington gave up their Merrimack Valley Conference status, they put us in this spot.

"So in order to cut the losses, I had to come up with something to sell the conference because I'm only one vote."

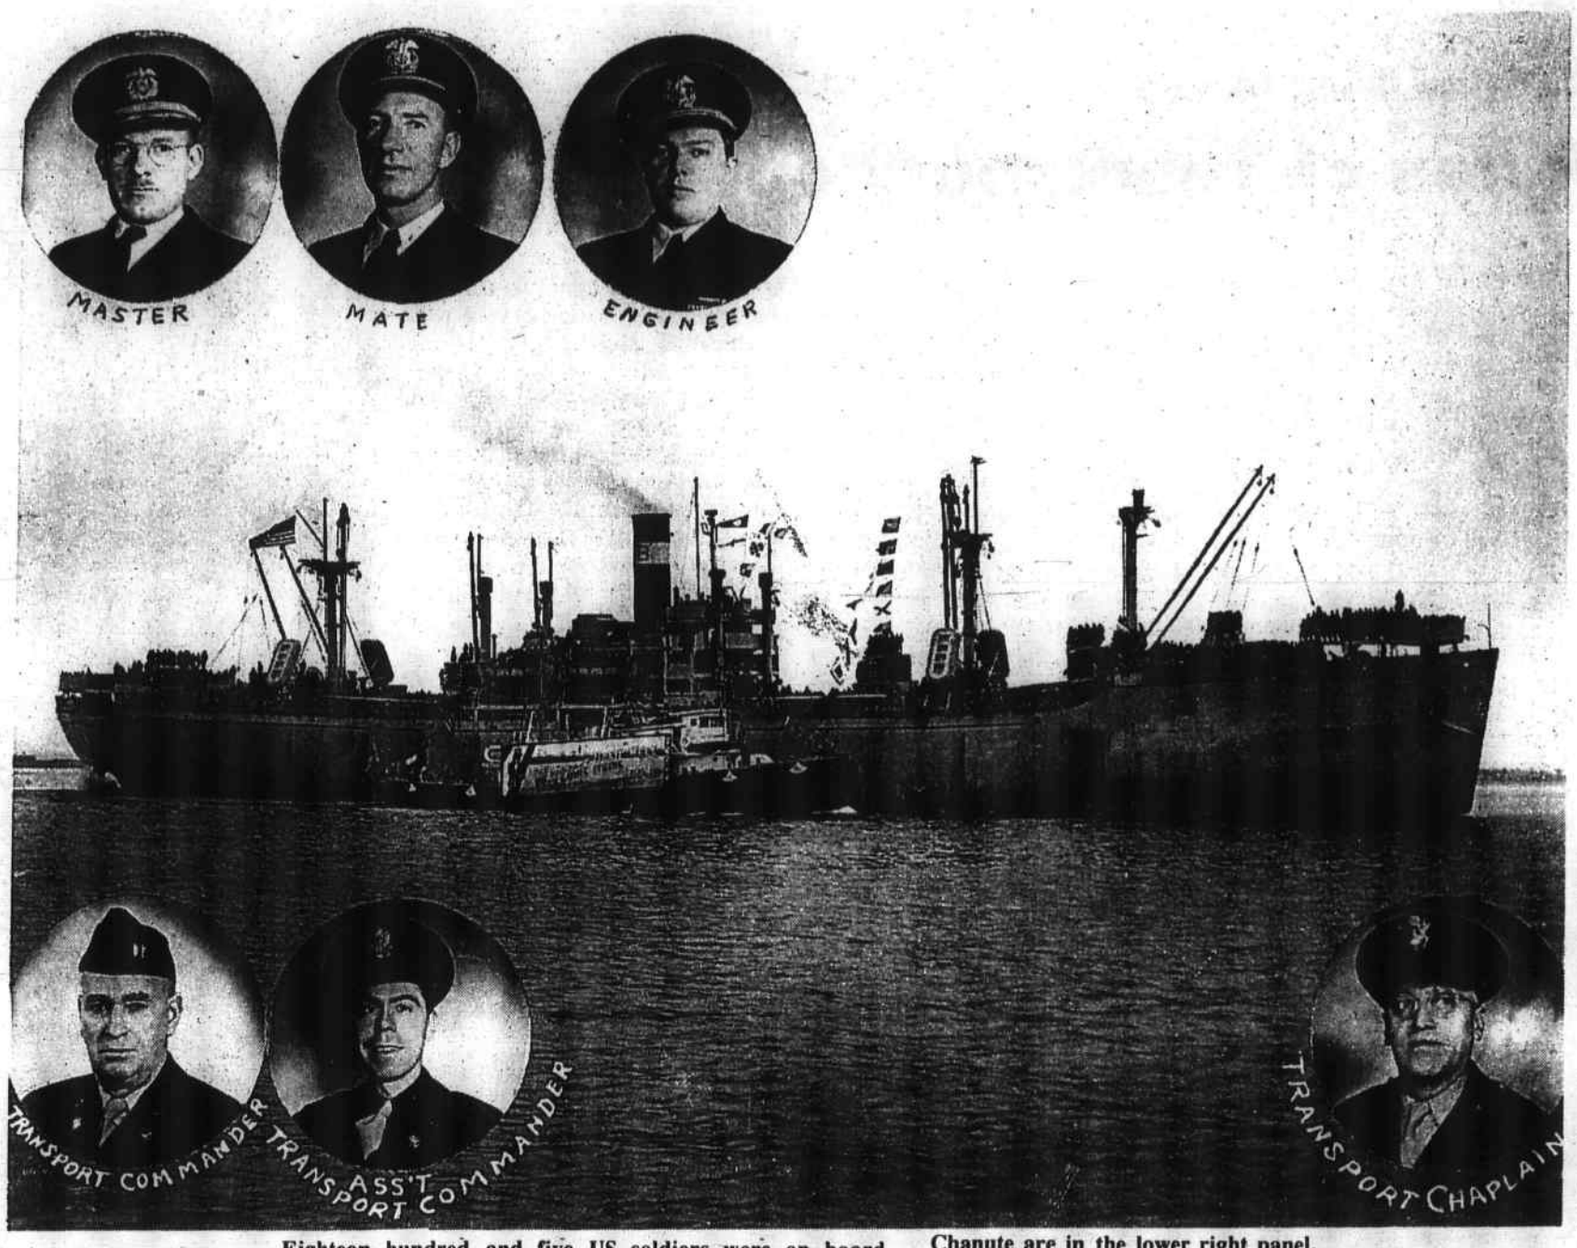

But Doherty said he feels that Sullivan should have made strides to protect the rivalry, something he now wants the committee and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Christine McGrath to take up.

"How do we work this out so we play Wilmington on Thanksgiving Day and not Andover and we go back to instead of the athletic director's making these decisions for the whole community, like [in] Tewksbury, for all of the people to be heard?" Doherty asked. "People do not want to be playing Andover, they want to continue with the Tewksbury-Wilmington tradition. What do we do to solve this problem, other than just say, 'Jeez, the nine athletic directors say we have to do it this way?'"

The committee voted unanimously to try to maintain the Thanksgiving game with Wilmington. McGrath, at the committee's request will attend the Dec. 7 meeting of the MVC in an effort to find a solution. In the meantime, McGrath said, she will be contacting other superintendents of MVC school systems while TMHS principal William McGuirk will query his colleagues and committee members will talk to school committee members from other communities.

With full backing of his own board, Doherty is adamant about finding a way to keep the Tewksbury-Wilmington football tradition alive.

"I don't like telling people in this community ... 'that's it, they said we can't do it,' Doherty said. "That's not the way things work. Certainly not if things have been going on for 60 years. It's not the right thing to do. And I don't believe that this can't be resolved."

Boston Harbor 1946

Eighteen hundred and five US soldiers were on board when this picture was taken of the Chanute Victory entering Boston Harbor, in April 1946, Captain Neilson, the chief engineer and the chief mate are in upper left panel. The military officers assigned to the Chanute are in the lower right panel.

Mrs. Neilson heard on the radio that morning that the Chanute Victory was arriving, and drove to Boston to see the ship, but no strangers were allowed on the pier. The only thing she could do was return home to wait.

Larz commanded the SS Chanute Victory

by Capt. Larz Neilson

It was just about 50 years ago that this writer took over command of the SS Chanute Victory. A new type vessel, it was over 450 feet long and capable of speed of 16 1/2 knots. The ship was berthed in New York, west side.

During the greater part of World War II this writer had commanded ships of the Liberty class. The first vessel had been the Daniel Boone, loaded with 7975.1 tons of ammunition. It was this writer's luck to cross the Atlantic, for the invasion of Africa alone, unescorted.

Later the writer took the Daniel Boone to the Persian Gulf, loaded with military stores for Russia. Those stores were previously being shipped to Murmansk, but too many of those ships were hit by German submarines The Daniel Boone loaded in Philadelphia, at a pier where the ships for Murmansk had been loading, and superintendent, Capt. Kelly wished me good luck as I backed the Daniel Boone out of the slip.

I told him I would be okay. Capt. Kelly did not know about the new orders, to go to the Persian Gulf. It was the longest voyage of my life, 19,000 miles.

Anyway, a few years later, just about the time of VJ Day, I brought the SS Benjamin Goodhue into New York. I was informed that I would be taking command of the Chanute Victory. The Goodhue had been under my command for over two years, mostly in the Mediterranean Sea.

The Chanute Victory was geared to carry 1800 military troops, but for this voyage the passenger list was about 400, of which about 75 percent were French speaking, French people or Swiss. They had been detained in New York during the warfare.

A Captain Clogston was on board when I boarded the Chanute Victory. He was the son of a man who had been a baker in the Tewksbury Hospital. Captain Clogston informed me: 1) a large number of the French and Swiss passengers were unable to speak English, and 2) the U.S. Coast Guard had just delayed the departure of the Chanute Victory until there was another lifeboat on board.

I had to tell the passengers. Fortunately French is a language with which this writer has no difficulty. The passengers were told to assemble, and the message delivered: There would be a delay of about two hours.

The new lifeboat arrived, and about 11 p.m. the Chanute Victory departed from the pier at which it was docked.

It was a pleasure to command a ship capable of doing 16 1/2 knots instead of the 10 1/2 knots of the Liberty ships. Instead of a voyage of 18-20 days across the Atlantic, it could be accomplished in about 10.

It was also a pleasure to have French people as guests. The captain had some of them at my table for dinner every day. The first port of call was Plymouth, England, where about 25 percent of the passengers disembarked.

Then to LeHavre, in France. The writer was to see that port many times in the ensuing months. LeHavre was the place to which the Yankee soldier were sent to assemble at three camps: 1. Camp Lucky Strike, 2. Camp Chesterfield, 3. Camp Camel, before boarding a transport to New York.

The Chanute Victory generally departed about four hours after arrival. The orders to the captain said that he was to notify New York, within one hour of the day and the hour he would dock at Pier 5, State Island, New York. This was always done.

Frequently the Chanute Victory took German prisoners on the return voyage to Europe, about 800. There were American military police to guard them. The Army was taking no chances.

Those Germans thought they were going home, but they had another think coming to them.

All German prisoners had to work three months in France before they were to be shipped to Deutschland. There was a lot of war damage that had to be cleared up.

This writer never got ashore in LeHavre, except on one occasion when he had to go to an office, somewhere. He went in a taxi and learned a few things.

Thousands of Americans had been in that city. The taxi driver told me that he had but few Americans as passengers, and he added that none of them could speak French.

He was delighted at having a passenger who could. He promised that the next time the Chanute Victory would dock in LeHavre he would come down to the dock so that the writer would have him as a personal driver.

But this writer never returned to LeHavre!

Tewksbury to observe Ed Week

The highlight of the 1995 American Education Week celebration will be a retirement party in honor of Mrs. Barbara E. Tanner. Mrs. Tanner has served the Tewksbury Public Schools as executive secretary to the superintendent and the school committee. The faculty, staff and administration are richer for having worked with Mrs. Tanner. She has been a valued colleague, a good listener and at times caring adoptive mother. We will miss Barbara and we wish her a long and rewarding retirement.

DeGregorio who served the school as principal and assistant principal for 25 years. The quintet will also play during morning service at the church, at 10:30.

Angela Gosse returning with brass quintet

by Jeff Nazzaro

Wilmington's Angela Gosse will bring some new friends to some of her old musical stomping grounds when the Arcadia Brass Quintet performs a free concert at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 12 at the Wilmington Congregational Church.

The members of the quintet, which started working together in September, are all students of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. Gosse, a 1992 graduate of Wilmington High School, is in her senior year at New England Conservatory, on her way to earning a bachelors of music degree.

The Arcadia Brass Quintet features Gosse and Eric Vismantas on trumpet, Deborah Harvey on french horn, Allison McIvor on trombone and David Wong on bass trombone. Wong hails from Singapore, while Vismantas, Harvey and McIvor are all from Southern California.

The group plays a wide range of brass songs, ranging from Renaissance dance tunes to Bernstein's West Side Story. The program, described by Gosse as fun and upbeat, will blend songs everyone will know with those most won't - compositions written specifically for brass quintets.

"We want people to be able to enjoy it and be able to recognize some of the songs, but also to introduce some more obscure pieces," Gosse said.

Gosse first picked up the trumpet 10 years ago while a student at the North Intermediate School, learning the instrument from Ms. Barbara Mette. She went on to play for Mette at WHS in both the concert/marching band and jazz-rock ensemble before graduating to the New England Conservatory. She was also a member of the WHS chorus.

Gosse is no stranger to performing at the Congregational Church, having been a member of both the choir and the hand bell choir there. And she still comes home to Wilmington from Boston a few times a year and always finds time to play her trumpet for Sunday service. This time she will be doing it with some new friends.

The Arcadia Brass Quintet will play at the 10:30 morning service at the church, featuring "quintet music with a slightly more religious bend" than what will be heard in the afternoon, Gosse said.

Correction

Due to a clerical error by the Wilmington Police Department, Herbert Mason, of 11 Nickerson Ave., Wilmington, was mistakenly listed as having plead guilty to a drunk driving charge last week in the court updates section of the Town Crier's listing of the Wilmington Police Log. Mason was not arrested by Wilmington Police and was not charged with any crime.

The correct item should have read Terrance O'Brien, 30, of 2 David Rd., Burlington plead guilty to a third offense of drunk driving. He was sentenced to 90 days in the House of Corrections concurrent with a prior offense.

Preliminary intersection designs for the Route 38 reconstruction.

• Main Street

The design is being funded by the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority, while the Federal Highway Administration and MassHighway will pick up construction costs, contributing 80 and 20 percent, respectively. The project is expected to cost $1.2 million.

With input from the public hearing, Fay, Spofford & Thorndike expects to have 100 percent plans drawn up by the spring of 1996. Construction is slated to begin that fall and be completed within 12 months.

Current plans include:

• Widening of Route 38 to four 11-foot travel lanes with 2-foot shoulders between Richmond Street (Route 129) and Clark Street, tapering to two 11-foot travel lanes with 8-foot shoulders south of Clark Street to Middlesex Avenue.

• Placing a signal at the Route 38-Clark Street intersection, while widening the Clark Street approach to provide an exclusive right turn lane.

• Combining the two existing Wilmington Plaza entrances into one centrally located, signalized driveway, offering access to the former Wilmington Ford site from the same intersection.

• Retaining the southerly (closest to Middlesex Avenue) entrance to Wilmington Plaza exclusively for truck traffic. The existing northerly entrance will be closed.

letters to politicians

Don't forget to pick up letters from the counter and mail them as soon as you can to the politicians. Seniors do not have too much time to stop the 270 billion cuts in Medicare and Social Security that Congress intends to make on the elderly to balance the budget. It is up to all of us to speak up against this drastic cut not only for the elderly but all of our children who will lose these benefits that they are paying an enormously large amount of money for while they are working. The politicians who are eager to make these cuts are, themselves receiving free medical care that we are paying for.

Victimized - AGAIN!

by James Pote

If it weren't for the four reporters surrounding WHS varsity football coach Gerry Sullivan after his team slipped to 3-6 with a 32-20 loss to Hamilton-Wenham on a cold windy Saturday afternoon, he probably would have been talking to himself.

After his entire team was AWOL for the first half, Sullivan found himself mystified at the scoreboard, which at halftime read HW-20, Visitors - 0.

What happened? Or rather, what didn't happen? was another question Sullivan was trying to figure out.

Perhaps Sullivan and his assistants said the right words to the team in the locker room at halftime because the Cats came out in the second half at least looking like a football team.

The team battled back and trailed 26-14 with two minutes and change left in the game. The momentum was swaying and Sean Kerrigan's on-side kick after a Rich Gillis touchdown was as perfect as one could be. Gillis pounced on the loose ball and Wilmington appeared to have it at the HW 48.

Nope. The referee on the other side of the field overruled the other two officials who were standing right in front of the play, saying that the ball did not travel ten yards. First down, HW. Bummer.

Four plays later, the score was 32-14 and two plays from scrimmage thereafter, Billy Harrison, substituting for the injured Tim Gillis at quarterback, hooked up on an impressive 55-yard chuck to Jamie Campbell to make it 32-20.

Gee, what could have happened if the right call were made. "I'm very upset with the call," said Sullivan after the game.

"That official was in no position to make that kind of call. He got an ear full from [the Hamilton-Wenham bench] so he changed the call. But, you can't cry over spilt milk. The game was not won or lost by that call but it certainly would have made it more exciting. I thought we had the momentum and perhaps maybe we could have pulled this one out. But, you have to give credit to them. They came out to play and they took a lead and held onto it. They played well throughout the entire game - we didn't," Sullivan continued in complete disgust.

HW scored three touchdowns in the first 20 minutes of play. The first was a 4-yard run by runningback Mark Burke after Wilmington coughed up the ball at their own 5. The second TD came when Seann Tulloch ran through the middle of the line for 53 yards and his first of two six-point plays of the day. Finally in the first half, Burke added his second of three for the day on a 2-yard dash after

Three pop warner teams make playoffs

A team loose in playoffs

The Wilmington Pop Warner A team concluded its very successful season with a playoff loss to the Everett Huskies.

The entire team gave a super effort, with Matt Minghella scoring the only Wildcat touchdown from the two yard line late in the first quarter. Despite superior efforts by Derek Mazza, Ryan O'Donnell, Sean Quigley and Eric Veator the Everett team proved to be too much for the Wildcats.

The A Team finished the season with a 7-1 League record and were Middlesex co-champions. Thanks for a great year to all the players and coaching staff. It was fun!

B Team

Wilmington 12 Beverly 0

Josh Hiltz on a 70-yard run and J.J. Gillis on a 30-yard pass play scored the two touchdowns.

Dennis Sullivan, Bobby French, Steven Brown all had good days in the backfield. Andrew Campbell had two receptions for 45 yards.

Defense was lead by Tim Elliott, John DiPasquale, Ryan Moroney on the defensive line while Sean McCarthy and Paul Ruggerio both had good days at end.

C Team

Everett 12 Wilmington 0

The Wilmington C team went undefeated for the second straight year dominating the Middlesex League with impressive play both offensively and defensively.

This team has consistently stopped the opposition from virtually any attack all season. And equally as well, dominated the field with their seemingly unstoppable offense.

After clinching the Middlesex League Title, beating powerhouse teams like Waltham and Woburn, The C-Team was off to the playoffs. The draw wasn't exactly what we had hoped for as a powerful Everett team was the first to be faced. This, nonetheless should not have been a problem.

The game started on a cold, damp misty night with Wilmington to kickoff. The initial drive by the Everett offensive powerhouse was dramatically shutdown as the Wilmington defenses topped them in three plays.

The Wilmington team and fans were pumped as the offense took the field. Everett however, had a defense as talented as ours and showed Wilmington they wee here to play as well. It became a defensive battle as both teams tried to out maneuver each other.

The game remained tied until late in the second quarter when Everett found an opening in the Wilmington defense on and a pass play scored from the 34-yard line.

As the half ended, Wilmington knew they were not out of it. All year the tough games wee won by Wilmington in the fourth quarter and the team was positive this was going to be one of those games.

The third quarter started and Wilmington began to put the pressure on. Excellent play calling with fine offensive blocking led Wilmington into the end zone with a 32-yard run by Jason Wagstaff. The extra point was run in by Ryan Layton as he broke two tackles on his way to the end zone.

The Wilmington Wildcats had a 7-6 lead and the confidence that the game was going their way. Or was it?

It was late into the third quarter and something didn't seem quite right. Penalty flags were being dropped on the field like snowflakes in a blizzard and therefore Everett had the ball on Wilmington's 48 yard line.

It was third and four and the Wilmington defense had to turn up the heat. A linebacker blitz was called. The quarterback was caught three yards deep. He slipped away and dropped back more only to be caught by three Wilmington defenders for a loss of about 12 yards. Or was it?

Wilmington Pop Warner

The referee apparently decided he was "in the grasp" after a loss of only three and spotted the ball accordingly. Instead of fourth-and-16, it was fourth-and-seven. Wilmington, shaken with the call, allowed Everett to convert the fourth down with a nine yard pass lay picking up the first down on the Wilmington 36. The very next play...touchdown Everett taking a 12-7 lead and certainly leaving Wilmington with their work cut out.

The third quarter ended 12-7 and Wilmington knew they could come back. They've done it before, they'll do it again. Early in the fourth quarter, the offense got rolling and knew the game was theirs. Or was it?

Wilmington was on their own 37. First-and-ten from the 38 and Jason Wagstaff got loose and ran what we all thought was a 62-yard touchdown run. It happened as he galloped toward the end zone chased by nothing but Red and White Everett Shorts. Not a blue shirt within 30 yards of him.

However, there it was. The penalty flag lay on the ground as the referee called what could have been a game winner back to the Wilmington 50. Holding was the call.

From that point on. Wilmington seemed to run flat for the remainder of the game. Final score Everett 12, Wilmington 7. It was not in the cards for Wilmington to advance.

Their season came to an end. One thing is for sure. This team played exceptionally well throughout the year. They came and practiced as a team. They developed as a team. They won as a team, and yes, they lost as a team. Every member of this Wilmington team deserves equal credit for a job well done!!

Wilmington Blue vs white

Brian Dalton and Rob Gillis scored to lead the blue team to a 15-6 win. Chris Winn, Conor Moroney, Chris Pedi, Ray Bennett, Joe Herra, Rob Harrington, Brad Hodgson, Tim Sughrue also played well for the blue squad.

The defense had a safety. Corey Lawrenson, Stephen Downs, Tim Brady, Scott Powers, Shaun Doherty, Brian Dalton, Doug Tranghese, Stephen Richard.

Mike Hurst bulled his way into the end zone from three yards out for the white team. Extra point attempt by Danny Jamerson was just short.

Mike Hurse, lineman Jonathan Maimoron, Mike Sorrentino, Phillip Minghella, Jay Kenney, Robbie Riccio, Keith Hill. Good running was turned in by Louis Insalaco and Tommy Warford to lead the white team.

Also playing well on defense for the white shirted players were Tim Ryan, Chris Clark, Justin Maimoron, Scott Konieczka, David Rizzo, Guthrie Gordon and Ryan Walsh.

Lack of solidarity could be the answer

by James Pote

The last few weeks I have been completely dumbfounded. I just can't seem to figure something out. I guess I can't figure out why the WHS football team is not over the .500 mark and why they are not having the success they should in their first year in the Cape Ann League. I have an answer. This one is not to degrade the team, but it's one that I believe is one of the reasons why the team is struggling: a lack of solidarity.

I don't get it. When I went to the WHS football field several times a week to watch either the girls or boys soccer games or to watch the field hockey games, I always walked by the football team's practices. And every single one of those practices, each and every player on the team was working as hard as they could and really showing the proper intensity it takes to play the game of football. And in the games, it shows that the players are working hard but it seems as if they are not playing together as a team.

This past week's loss against Hamilton-Wenham, and one play in particular, really highlighted this point. Late in the game, with the team trailing 20-8, Wilmington's co-captain and linebacker, Tom Burke, stuffed HW running back Mark Burke for a big loss. Not one of his teammates congratulated him. That was a huge play. Wilmington got the ball back a play later and even though they gave the ball back two plays thereafter, Burke's defensive play really helped them at that time. But after, the team just lined up for the next play. Not one pat on the back, not one slap on the hat. Not nothin'.

I know the WHS football players do work very hard and they do give it their best, but the only way they are going to win is by playing as a team - and the past few weeks have really lacked that. And I'm not just talking about that one example - there have been many others over the course of the season.

The biggest ingredient to a team's success is not the talent or the coaching staff, it is whether or not the team can play together. As corny as it sounds, that statement is true. And when players don't root for their teammates, something is wrong.

It seems that the players on the WHS team are not enjoying playing the game of football. I realize that losing is not fun. But guys, have some fun out there. Show the other team that you have come to play and that you own them. The mental aspect of the game of football is also as much a factor as the physical part is. If an opposing team sees the other team is not hustling in and out of the game and they see that the the team walks towards their coach on a timeout, they will take advantage of that. The opposing team will realize that they can win this game because the other team doesn't want to win it, or so it seems.

The only way to become a winning team is to first go through a losing streak together - victories will only come in a matter of time and only as long as the team sticks together.

I remember when I was a freshman on the junior varsity hockey team. There was so much talent on the varsity team that was never used. Everyone was out for themselves. And as strange as it may sound, some players were writing down their goals they just scored and how and when they scored it on a piece of paper on the bench after they got off the ice.

Anyway, my sophomore season, the team really came together. In fact, in the last regular season game of the year, we beat a heavily favored Tewksbury team to give us a state tournament berth. That was one of the best days of my life ... a day that I will never forget. Why? Because I realized just what it was like to be a part of a winning team and sharing that with my friends will always be one of my fondest high school memories.

All I'm trying to say to the football team is to have fun. Enjoy the game you love and enjoy the game you have worked so hard at over the years.

Next year is supposed to be the year for the football team. I guarantee that the wins will not just fall on the team's lap and I hope the team realizes that. The team first has to realize that winning is playing as a team and right now a big part of why the team is not winning, in my own view, is because they are not playing as a team.

IRA ROLLOVER

...QUESTION: My company is terminating its pension plan and intends to distribute the money to its employees. Can an employee keep those funds in a tax-deferred basis?

Answer: The answer is yes, by means of a "rollover". That is taking the money out of one investment trust and putting it into another. The employee can take that money and put it into his IRA tax shelter account.

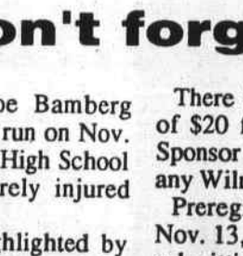

If a person has already paid federal income tax on pension money he received, he can fill out an amended tax return for the year he received the money and get a tax refund. If he's wise, he'll put THAT money into his IRA account!

DID YOU KNOW that you can "roll over" your pension funds into your IRA?

Kosmidis, Harris and Bruno lead list of various awards

by James Pote

Near the end of last year's school season, I wrote a column in which I gave different awards to different Wilmington High School athletes for various reasons for their efforts in their respective sports. This year I decided to break up each season and give out awards. Here it is for the fall 1995 WHS sports season.

Below is a list of of awards that I thought of. I chose the winners and runners-up of the categories. The boys awards are listed first followed by the girls awards.

Award: Winner:
Team MVP Steve Kosmidis, soccer

In his second year of playing American style soccer after moving from Greece, this midfielder/defender was one of the best players in both the MVC (last year) and the Cape Ann League this year.

Most Improved from '94 Darren Bishop, soccer

After what he called "sitting on the bench" for three years, Darren stepped into an extremely difficult situation, taking over for Joe Bamberg in the net. Bishop came up with an excellent season.

Most Improved from '95 Mike Sweet, cross country

Even though the team struggled with just two wins, Sweet really benefitted the top runners on the team with his hard work.

Runners-up for most improved from start of season
Jamie Campbell, football

Campbell has really improved since the start of the season. He has been the mainstay of the team's defense from his linebacker position. The opposition's running game has been held better than it has in the past several years and Campbell is a major reason for that.

Kevin Kakacamburas, soccer

Kakacamburas really stepped up his play on the team as he found a way to become the scorer the team desperately needed - but he didn't have enough time to carry that success on.

Freshman Award:
Dennis Ingram, soccer and Mike Gennetti, football

Both of these players really showed in limited time that they have talent to play their respective games. Ingram really came on strong towards the latter part of the season and if Gennetti takes lessons from teammate Billy Harrison, he should add a nice complement to the team's running game next year.

Unexpected Stars:
Bill Dineen and Ryan Haubner, golf

These two players really came on to give the team a deadly top three, along with Rob Torrani. Both Dineen and Haubner's performances earned the team a spot in the postseason for the first time in at least 12 years.

Most Improved Team: Golf

The only fall boys team to get into the state tournament, the golf team really turned around their efforts from last year as the entire team chipped in - and that's why the team finished where they did.

Female winners
Team MVP:
Leanne Harris, field hockey and Elaine Bruno, soccer

I couldn't decide between these two athletes because they both were so valuable to their team. Harris, a three-sport athlete and co-player of the year in field hockey in the Cape Ann League had a terrific season in which she often times dominated entire games.

Bruno, on the other hand, came in as the new goalie without any varsity experience and shut down the opposition in a rebuilding year. The team competed in every game they played in and without her they wouldn't have competed in any.

Most Improved from '94:
Jill Lojek, soccer, Paula DeCourcey and Jodi MacKenzie, field hockey and Kara Hendricks, volleyball

I also couldn't decide on this category because so many athletes deserved it. Lojek and DeCourcey have drastically improved from last year and they will be looked upon as their respective team's top defenders in '96.

MacKenzie has also stepped up and she gave the team a much needed scoring boost as well as giving the entire forward line of Julie Gillis, Catherine Townsend and herself a blazing speed combination which should be deadly next year.

Finally, Hendricks really improved her complete style of play. Whether it was serving or just hustling, she provided a lot to the team in her final year.

Most Improved from '95: Elise Boisvert, X-country

This senior has really worked extremely hard in her four years. She kept progressing after each year and this year she really stepped up and was a big factor for the team as a senior leader.

Freshman Award: Lisa Dellascio, soccer

This was the easiest pick of all of the awards. Dellascio became a starter very early into the season after displaying some moves and the hustle that seniors have. She played many different positions and she really was strong as center-halfback - and that says a lot for a freshman. If she continues to improve on her play, by the time she is a senior, she could be one heck of a player.

Unexpected Stars: Jen Mullins, field hockey

Mullins was one of the biggest reasons why the team went to the state tournament with such a young team. She continued the tradition of great goalie for the ever-winning WHS field hockey program. Mullins provided everything that could have been asked of her.

Most Improved team: Field hockey

Another easy choice since at the start of the season this team really lacked experience and they had many positions to fill with only Harris and Gillis's spots occupied. They came out strong from the get-go and continued to strive and they looked more and more like a team that had played together for many, many years. Next year should be real interesting.

Championship team gets rewarded in big way

by James Pote

Move over Ray Bourque, here comes the 1992/93 Wilmington Mite C youth hockey team. Step aside Mario Lemieux, these guys are first. Cam Neely, who? Wayne Gretzsky? never heard of 'em ... and how about the likes of Wilmington's finest getting into the National Hockey League's Hall of Fame before any of these overpaid millionaires? Yep, these 14 youngsters proved just what hockey is all about: having fun. And boy, were they ever rewarded.

After their first year playing for an organized youth hockey team, the 1992/93 Mite C team, under the direction of coaches Bob Stanley, Steve Burns, Eric Porter, Steve Zuccaro and Nino Trimarchi accomplished what every hockey player and fan only dreams about. They are among the elite. In addition to seeing Orr, Esposito and Howe, spectators will now see Berian, Buck, Burns ... and the rest of the gang.

The Mite level is the first level kids can skate at, encompassing ages 8-10. At the start of the season, the team barely knew how to skate. During the year, the team improved and continued to improve.

When all was said and done, the team finished the regular season with an amazing 15-2-1 record that earned them the Valley League Mite C first place trophy. From there they went into the playoffs and took their two games, emerging as Valley League Mite C Champions.

This past summer, Paul Velardo, a current youth hockey coach and the father of David Velardo, who was on the team, took his family to Toronto and they visited the Hall of Fame. Velardo then brought a brochure back home with him that said any youth hockey team from the United States or Canada could be registered into the museum, if they had won a league championship or something to that effect.

Velardo gave that brochure to Stanley, who was the head coach for the team. Stanley then thought about how much of a joy it was for his team to win it all in their first year of playing the sport they truly loved; and the joy of it happening in his first year of coaching at the youth hockey level in Wilmington.

Stanley then sent in the brochure with the $25 (Canadian) fee, with a description of every player on his team and a team picture. Voila.

The team is now part of an exhibit stored in a computerized data base in the Ford North American Zone area in the Hall. And after a few buttons are pushed, the entire team's picture and short write-ups on all of the players appear on a large screen.

"Going into the final game of the playoffs, I didn't care whether or not we won," said Stanley. "When I saw the kids with their helmets off and big smiling faces on during the playing of the National Anthem it made my whole season. And I thought they would get a kick out of being in the Hall of Fame. I think it's great that they are in."

Velardo said the exhibit is really nice and the kids deserve being in it.

"It's really nice that Bob went through with it. All you have to do is press a button on the screen and then press what state, town and team and everything comes on the screen - it's really neat."

For the record the Wilmington Mite C team is listed under 1993, Massachusetts, Wilmington. It is the only Wilmington team in the database so far.

Stanley also said that with no expectations whatsoever on the kids because of their young age and since it was their first year of organized hockey. But, he couldn't believe the steps of improvement each of the kids took during that remarkable season.

"There weren't any expectations and the kids kept improving through the whole year. And we really didn't think we were going to win that second [playoff] game and the kids worked so hard and they deserved to win it," Stanley said.

And Stanley recapped just what teaching the kids about the game of hockey, about sportsmanship and about teamwork is all about.

"Youth hockey is all about kids having fun. When the kids were smiling on the ice, it just made it so great to be a part of it - I was so proud of each and every one of them. All of the kids were great and I will always have a special attachment to them, most especially since it was my first year of coaching."

So whenever Andy Berian, Greg Buck, Kyle Burns, T.J. Duggan, Greg LeFave, Joseph Luciano, James O'Neill, Chuck Osgood, Matt Porter, Matt Trimarchi, David Trueira, David Velardo, Matt Waisnor or Danny Zuccaro are in the Toronto area, they can look up their names ... and see that they are among hockey's best.

Wilmington 6 Wakefield 0

Posting a pair of wins in just four days the Wilmington Boys Under 10 D youth soccer team polished off a perfect 8-0 season.

Forced by driving rain into a midweek makeup game, Wilmington blanked visiting Wakefield 6-0. Zack Ungvarsky and Tim Kent manned the goal as the squad racked up its sixth shutout.

Wilmington spread out the scoring as six different players notched goals. Michael Cavallaro led the scoring parade followed by Derek Concannon, Tim Kent, Eric Ollila, Kyle Patrie and Dana Zanni.

Three days later in its season finale on the road vs Waltham, Wilmington cranked its goal total to 58 against two for its opponents with a 9-1 victory.

A tenacious Waltham squad kept the high voltage Wilmington offense unplugged for the first ten minutes of the game. But Kent was a stone wall in net, turning back a series of attacks.

The bottled up offense was finally uncorked when Raymond Gravallese booted one into the corner of the Waltham net.

Waltham, however, wasn't ready to be another victim of the Wilmington steamroller. The host banged one home and Wilmington lost a lead for the first time all season.

Refusing to permit a blemish on their record, the Wilmington defense and offense rose to the challenge. With Ungvarsky and Sean Wilson playing stalwart defense, Ollila took back the lead for good with a shot over the keeper's head.

Defensive standout Ungvarsky put his mark on the offense just a few minutes later, jumping on an errant Waltham kick and assist with a beautiful pass to Scott Sferazza but Sferazza was robbed by the Waltham goalie.

Another blast by Ollila through the center of the Waltham net gave Wilmington a 4-1 halftime lead.

Opening up the second half, Patrie took over in goal for Kent who immediately joined the scoring party with a goal of his own.

The remainder of the game was a clinic on Coach Bill Kent's patented passing system. Concannon played key roles with smooth as silk playmaking.

An opportunistic Wilmington squad continued to dominate. Zanni hammered home a rebound of a Kent shot for a goal followed a short time later by another Gravallese drive into the corner of the net.

While Patrie made diving saves back in net, Kent kept up his offensive show with another goal on a strong pass from Wilson. Zanni finished off the season and the scoring with a beautiful breakaway goal.

Coach Kent was thrilled with the performance of his undefeated squad. He was happy to point out that every player has a goal to his credit.

Under 10-A girls

The Wilmington Girls Under 10 A soccer team recently finished its season with four wins over Middlesex league opponents.

In the first game against Somerville, Wilmington dominated from the start. With many early chances at scoring only Rachelle See could hit the back of the net in the first half.

With the start of the second half the Wildcats continued their fine team passing and play which led to two fine goals one by Ashley Steenbruggen and one by Shannon Fahey, both goals being set up by Allison Flynn.

In the second game against Medford, Lauren MacDonald was the goal scoring star with her first two goals of the season. Even with bad luck in front of the net all season, Lauren continued to play outstanding offense waiting for the right time to score and against Medford she finally broke through. In the Medford game Lauren Rappolli and Ashley Steenbruggen also added goals.

In the third game against Reading, Katie Riley was the goal scoring star with two and a great save in net to preserve the shutout. Adding goals for the Wildcats was Lauren Rappolli and Lauren Cushing. Playing well in Reading were Jackie Rideout and Catelin McNabb.

In the final game of the fall season, the girls finished off Stoneham 5-0 behind two big second half goals by Allison Flynn and a great left footed blast by Lauren Cushing.

In the first half, Kara Bruce scored her first goal of the season with the assist going to Lauren MacDonald. Jackie Spry dominated at defense and Shannon Fahey had two great saves in the net for the shutout.

The girls finished undefeated and unscored upon and every player scored at least one goal this season.

Under 12-A

The Wilmington Boys Under 12 A Soccer Team evened its fall record with two ties and a win ending the fall season with a 3-3-2 record.

Wilmington had two ties against Waltham and Concord, which from their overpowering superior play could have easily been wins.

Wilmington played to a 1-1 tie against Waltham in Waltham. Striker, Jared Constantino scored quickly in the first half, providing an early lead. The exceptional midfield play of Michael Rideout, Craig Osgood and Mark Krasnyansky forced the ball to remain in Waltham's half of the field for the majority of the game.

Wilmington had several opportunities to put the game away, but the ball couldn't find the net. Tommy Doyle and Archie Deletter played strong games at forward, while Danny O'Connell had another outstanding game as sweeper.

Waltham's score came midway through the second half off a bullet shot bounding off the goal keeper's hand and spinning into the net.

Playing at home against Concord, the team played another outstanding game with Wilmington again dominating the opponent to a 0-0 score. Forwards Robert Schell and Alfredo Badolato had shots bounce off the left post ad cross bar.

David Rappoli, Craig Osgood, Michael Rideout and Keith Frongillo controlled the game at midfield. Defensive backs Andrew Holland, Matthew Goldblatt, Brandon Courtois and sweeper Danny O'Connell didn't provide Concord any opportunities to score, allowing keepers Patrick O'Shea and Dennis DiCenso to maintain a shutout.

Wilmington had an opportunity to score late in the game off a penalty shot that just skimmed over the top of the cross bar.

Wilmington's last game and third win of the season came against Wakefield in which Wilmington dominated 3-0. The Wilmington squad played the entire first half of the game in Wakefield end of the field.

Forwards Robert Schell and Alfredo Badolato provided strong crosses into striker Jared Costantino, with many exciting opportunities to score just missing the goal. Keith Frongillo scored with only two minutes left in the half, when he broke through the Wakefield defense, and shot one into the lowest right corner of the net.

In the second half. Wilmington scored again early when Keith Frongillo exploded through the Wakefield defense, receiving a pass from Mark Krasnyansky and rifled a shot past the goalkeeper and into the net.

The defense of Brandon Courtois, Andrew Holland, David Rappoli and Patrick O'Shea was outstanding. They didn't allow the Wakefield team any scoring opportunities, thus preserving another shutout for keeper Dennis DiCenso.

Wilmington's third goal resulted from another good pass from Mark Krasnyansky and the relentless hustle of right forward Matthew Goldblatt, who out ran everyone for the ball and zinged it into the net. Archie Deletter, Thomas Doyle and Michael Rideout all played strong games to secure the win for the Wilmington squad.

Congratulations to the team on an outstanding fall season and good luck when play resumes in the spring.

Outdoors column

Let the games begin

by Bill Conlon

The weather has turned cooler. Good news, right on time.

That little nip in the air brings on many changes, if you haven't yet noticed. The bird feeder is busier than a men's room at Fenway in the top of the eighth, but only if the birds can shove their way past the fat squirrels that are getting fatter.

More important for deer hunters, the chill kicks off the complex but predictable (sort of) ritual of deer breeding, or the "rutting" season.

Deer are territorial, and when it's high time for reproduction, bucks don't wany any other bucks around. Does will come and go, because it's a seller's market for them. Bucks are the buyers, and the competition is fierce.

First, a buck needs to polish up his antlers.

Unlike horns, which grow over the years, antlers are deciduous and fall off every winter. New antlers appear in the summer, starting as a pulpy mass covered in a fuzzy layer of tissue and blood vessels known as velvet.

By now, the antlers are firm and the velvet has fallen off. The buck chooses a tree, then rub the antlers against the tree to scrape off the last bits of velvet. I'm convinced the size of the tree correlates to the size of the buck. Thumb-thick saplings, in my experience, means a spike or a forkhorn buck. No biggie. But if the tree is as thick as your wrist, to me it indicates there's a monster in the area. I also suspect that the size of the tree is a subtle warning to other bucks. Big Boy -- Watch out.

Next, the buck wants to secure his territory. That means chasing off any other bucks in the area. You! Outta here! Now!

Oh yeah? Sez who?

Well, that snaps it. A challenger, and a cocky one at that! The battle starts as snorting and pawing, then leads up to a staring contest that only deer understand. Two bucks will go eye to eye, and just stare. Seconds pass without blinking. The deer are gauging each other with no motion, no sound.

If the challenger doesn't back off from the stare, it's combat.

The two bucks lower their heads and charge, smashing their antlers together. (Broken antlers are a sure sign of a battlle-scarred buck.) The warriors push and twist their necks and shift from side to side, in a battle of raw muscle. After a long few seconds they both take a step back and stare again. Had enough? No!? Then try THIS!

The battle rages on until one buck decides he's had enough. The loser is chased away, and the winner gets to keep all the territory, and all the does. Is one fight enough to secure the area? Probably not.

Between battles, bucks will set out a trail of scent markers, known as "scrapes." These markers appear as bare-dirt circles scraped into the forest litter, usually on a trail. The buck paws up the dirt, urinates on it to mark it, adding musk from his metatarsal glands, and chews up any twigs overhanging the scrape. The buck will lay out a number of these markers, both to warn other bucks and to advertise his presence to wandering does.

Some scrapes are checked by the buck periodically, probably to see if any ladies came through, while others are forgotten. Perhaps the forgotten scrapes were left by the losing buck, now long gone?

A receptive doe visiting a fresh scrape will urinate on it, step in it, then walk away, leaving a scent trail that lover-boy will follow to the ends of the Earth.

That's how the game is played. By midwinter, all the does will be thick with fawn, the buck's antlers have fallen off, and there is quiet in the woods again.

Hunters must try to understand the whole fabric of deer behavior during this curious time of year, or take their chances with sheer luck. Humans, being a bit smarter than deer, gain an edge with knowlege.

A buck following a hot scent trail can be pretty stupid. He's got one thing on his mind, and he might not be paying close enough attention to his surroundings. Use it. Ignore a doe and you may miss the buck who follows close behind.

A tree rub is often found near the buck's bedding area. He spends the night prowling and sleeps during the day, unless he's on a hot scent. Pick your spot close to a good tree rub and wait.

A buck may, or may not, visit his scent markers. Set up an ambush in sight of a scrape then sit quietly and hope for the best. He might come by, or he might be in Minnesota in search of a buck he can finally beat.

As always, the best times to be out during deer season are at dawn and dusk, when the deer are moving to and from their beds.

Bow season in Massachusetts just opened on Tuesday, November 6.

The air is now cold. Great.

Vicitimized!

Wilmington fumbled the ball at their own 38.

Wilmington was indeed looking for some help after their first half performance. Sullivan said they were non-existant in the first half and he was absolutely correct. They were dominated offensively, with a 151-42 total yards margin in favor of HW.

Wilmington clearly needed some kind of spark to get back into the game.

After HW fell inches short on a fake punt play with a short pass on a fourth-and-five situation from their own 39 at the start of the second half, Wilmington slowly marched upfield. Kerrigan closed the gap to 20-6 when he leaped over a pile at the goal line on a seven-play series for the Cats. Rich Gillis carried in the two-point conversion.

HW then went three-and-out due to a big defensive play by linebacker Tom Burke and the momentum was starting to shift in favor of the Cats. Wilmington gained 21 yards on seven plays in their next series and they actually lost a yard when they punted, because of the swirling wind.

After a few short gains by HW, Wilmington took over at their own 33. After an incompletion, Harrison was then chased out of the pocket on second down, by three HW defenders and he tried to throw the ball to an open receiver since he had already lost 15 or so yards, but his pass was picked off and brought in to the 10-yard line. The next play for HW was a touchdown run by Tulloch to make it 26-8 with 3:30 left to go in the game.

Mike Gennetti returned his first of two nice run backs with a 28-yarder to the Wilmington 48 to set-up good field position and keep hopes of a come from behind win alive.

After Rich Gillis went in as the quarterback for one play and found Harrison for a 13-yard first down pick-up, Harrison returned as the QB and rifled a 31-yarder to Josh Cormier, who was brought down at the HW 4.

Rich Gillis continued his fine two-way monster performance with a 4-yard touchdown run to close the gap to 12 at 26-14.

That Wilmington touchdown set-up the on-side kick before HW added on another touchdown. Wilmington's Jamie Campbell ended the scoring bonanza with a superb 55-yard reception down the right side of the field on a tight spiral from Harrison.

Wilmington has two games left in the season. This Saturday will be their last home game when they face a struggling Pentucket Sachems squad.

After that will be the last meeting between Wilmington and Tewksbury on Thanksgiving game when the Cats travel to Redmen country to take on the very powerful and very undefeated Division 2B Superbowl bound Redmen.

Wilmington youth hockey action

MITE D

The Wilmington Mite D youth hockey team had its first win against Pentucket this past week with Andrew Fish scoring the first goal of the season, with an assist by Dan Steenbruggen.

The second period was scoreless with great defensive plays by Danny Silva and Mike Boussard, while, Bobby McKinnon and Jason Riopelle kept the offensive heat on.

Tim Mullay assisted the win scoring an unassisted goal in the third period. Shane Foley takes credit for the shutout with some unbelievable glove saves.

Prior to that, the team played a fantastic game with Cape Ann. At the end of the first period, down by two goals the Wilmington's offensive team turned it on. In period two right wing Vinny See fired up a pass to Dan Steenbruggen who tucked away is first goal of the season.

Just two minutes later he scored number two tying the score. On defense Chris Olsen and Eric DiDomenico along with goalie Stefan Toci made period two scoreless for Cape Ann.

The Mite D's played their first home game of the season against Saugus and Saugus was no match for the Mighty Mites who skated away with another win 9-0.

The Sharpshooters were Jim Mullay assisted by Dana Steenbruggen, Bobby MacKinnon scored two goals unassisted and Danny Silva one. Stefan Toci scored assisted by Ralph Newhouse and popped in another unassisted. Eric DiDominico and Shane Foley both scored.

Ryan Delaney flawlessly guarded the net and took credit for the shutout.

Mite C

The Wilmington Mite C's played their second game of the official 95-96 season versus the Newburyport II Clippers this Sunday at Merrimack College.

It turned out to be a great outing for the Wilmington squad as they came home with a well deserved 5-2 victory.

However, things didn't start out so well for Wilmington as Newburyport scored the only two goals of the first period. This first goal came when a Newburyport forward knocked in a loose puck past Wilmington goalie Keith Irwin.

The second was a short handed goal scored when a Newburyport defenseman streaked the length of the ice and slammed it home.

Finally, Wilmington lit the lamp with 5:47 remaining when Edzo Tucker made an excellent break from center ice and beat the Newburyport net minder.

The C's continued to pepper the Clipper goalie as Steve Emery, Rusty Grant and Chris Stafford all had shots on goal. Jason Buckley then took a Justin LeFave pass and made a speedy rush to the net with just a minute left and scored to tie the game at two apiece.

On defense, the Wilmington fans saw some beautiful technique from Billy Schultes who made several heads up plays to break up Newburyport rushes and fed the puck back to his forwards.

Also helping out in front of Wilmington goalie Keith Irwin were Justin Roberts, Chris Waisnor and Jason Randall. Jason Randall also got into the scoring action with two minutes gone in the third period when he took the puck at the point and slid it through a crowd in front of the net to put Wilmington out front 3-2.

Eric Ollila added an insurance goal after a nice pass from winter Jason Buckley. Only a minute later, Eric returned the favor when Jason scored off Eric's rebound. This goal was Buckley's second of the day and it put the game out of reach for Newburyport.

But with another six and a half minutes left to play, Wilmington didn't want to give them any chances and Mike Fay and Albert Fiorenza were key to keeping the puck in their zone.

This was a superb day for Wilmington's two Jasons (Buckley and Randall) who combined for three goals and an assist.

The C's next game is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 18 at 6:10 p.m. at Revere when they will face Cambridge II.

Mite B

Woburn 6 Wilmington 3

The Wilmington Mite B hockey team came out in its first regular season game skating hard against the Woburn Tanners.

The first half of the first period was a back and forth game. Both teams skated well bringing the puck up and down the ice. Both teams had many scoring opportunities, but Wilmington's Bobby Sinopoli was the one to break the 0-0 tie with an assist going to the hard and fast skating Warren Fitzpatrick. The Cats' lead was short lived when Woburn tallied a total of three before the end of the first.

During second period action Wilmington's defense and fine goal tending of Tim Anderson allowed only one more goal in throughout the period. Beginning the third with a deficit of three goals seemed too much for the Cats.

The team never seemed to give up with two more goals in the third. One on a driving rush by George Dighton who pushed the puck in the crease where David Griffin nudged it in, and another well deserved unassisted goal by the quick skating Bryant Buck.

Woburn seemed to be too much this game, even for our never-say die team. Though a loss on the books, the Wilmington Mite B team, also including Scott Sferrazza, Jamie Riopelle, Jay Surianello, Mike Welch, Scott Dunnett, Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Joe Pino, Jennifer Corcoran and Donny Heenan, all played a hard skating, well rounded game.

MITE A

Wilmington 5 Woburn 0

The Woburn Mite A Rink Rats as they are called, crossed the town line to face off against the surging Wilmington Mite As early this past Sunday.

Thanks to a third period explosion and stingy goal tending by Matt David, the renewed Wildcats blanked the Rats by a 5-0 margin.

The key to this game, much like last week's games, was the all around team effort put in by the local skaters. The goals that Wilmington scored were the result of teamwork from either swift forechecking by forwards or nifty defensive zone breakouts engineered by the defensemen.

Both teams played evenly throughout the first period as they seemingly felt each other out in the team's next game. Goalies at both ends were called upon to make some saves. Neither team held an obvious edge in play, until near the end of the period when Wilmington began to pick up the pace in the Woburn end.

Robbie Peterson vaulted Wilmington into the lead with just over two minutes remaining in the first period. Robbie, receiving a pass from winger Jacklyn Rideout, who incidentally played a very good game herself, skated in on the Woburn goalie and five holed a shot into the net, 1-0 Wilmington at the first intermission.

Woburn responded in the second as they turned up their forechecking effort a few notches and prevented Wilmington from getting out of their end on many occasions. Solid goaltending and defensive coverage kept the goose egg on the score board for the Cats. Defenseman Stephen Peterson was outstanding in the Wilmington zone.

Wilmington had some sterling scoring chances of its own but was unable to light the lamp. Kyle Browne outraced a defender for the puck and went in alone only to scream a shot just wide of the net. Timmy Aldrich who was flying all morning was also foiled on a breakaway bid.

After a scoreless second session, Eric Raposo attempted for a break as he lugged the puck along the left wing boards before launching a shot at the net. Mark Giordano and Ray Bennett were all over the rebounding a frenzy in front of the Woburn net.

Their persistence paid off as Ray slammed the disk into the net 2-0 Wilmington with nine minutes left. Wilmington kept pushing, rushes by Zach Wilkins and defensemen Michael McMahon and Dean Smith, although impressive, came up empty.

With time running out, Kyle Browne walked in again, this time on a Timmy Aldrich feed. Kyle would not be denied this time as he sailed one into the twine with a minute left.

Zach Wilkins then got into the act, as he too walked in alone, the result of a great inside move which left the Woburn defenseman stunned. Assisting on Zach's goal were Browne and Kevin Velardo, who was a rock defensively for Wilmington all morning.

Unrelenting, Marshall Nevins scored with a scant seven seconds left on a goal mouth scramble as he and Wilkins swatted at the puck and goalie like a birthday pinata. Wilkins was credited with an assist.

In the end, the Wilmington players skated off the ice quite content with their accomplishments as a team.

Squirt A

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Squirt A team dropped its second game of the regular season in the Valley Youth Hockey League in a 6-2 defeat at the hands of the Newburyport Clippers.

For all intents this one was over early as the Clippers came out in full sail and scored just 15 seconds into the contest. Newburyport would net three more goals in the opening period and then cruise home for the win.

For their part the Wildcats never quit but were unable to get their attack and defense organized. While the Clippers would break in and crisply pass to the open man for a shot, the Wildcats' passes would go astray or their shots would be blocked.

Trailing 6-0 in the final minutes of the game, Wilmington finally added two goals to make the score more respectable.

Matt Trimarchi and Danny Zuccaro set up Anthony Tomasi for the first Wildcat score. Zuccaro passed to Trimarchi in the right wing corner. Matt then spotted Tomasi open in the slot for one of the few times in the game. Tomasi took the centering feed and calmly deposited it into the Clipper goal.

In the final minute, Zuccaro passed to winger Danny Liberty breaking behind the Clipper defense. Liberty cleanly beat the goaltender with a hard shot stick side to make the final 6 to 2.

Armata scores six

Suffolk University soccer player Christian Armata of Wilmington was a member of the Suffolk University varsity soccer team this fall.

A sophomore in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Armata scored six goals playing forward for the Rams who won eight games, lost eight and tied one.

He is the son of Andrew and Karen Armata of Wilmington and a 1992 graduate of Wilmington High School.

Galvin heads Veteran's Day activities

By HARRIS CUSICK

There's a man who spent his boyhood in Wakefield that knows a lot about the cost of freedom and the cost of peace and chances are he will be talking about those costs in his hometown Saturday. That's when former NATO Commander General John R. Galvin, U.S. Army Ret. who was recently installed as the Dean of Tufts University's Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, will be the featured speaker at his hometown's Veterans Day Ceremonies. The retired four-star General rose through the Army's ranks after enlisting in the Massachusetts Army National Guard's Wakefield Armory in 1948.

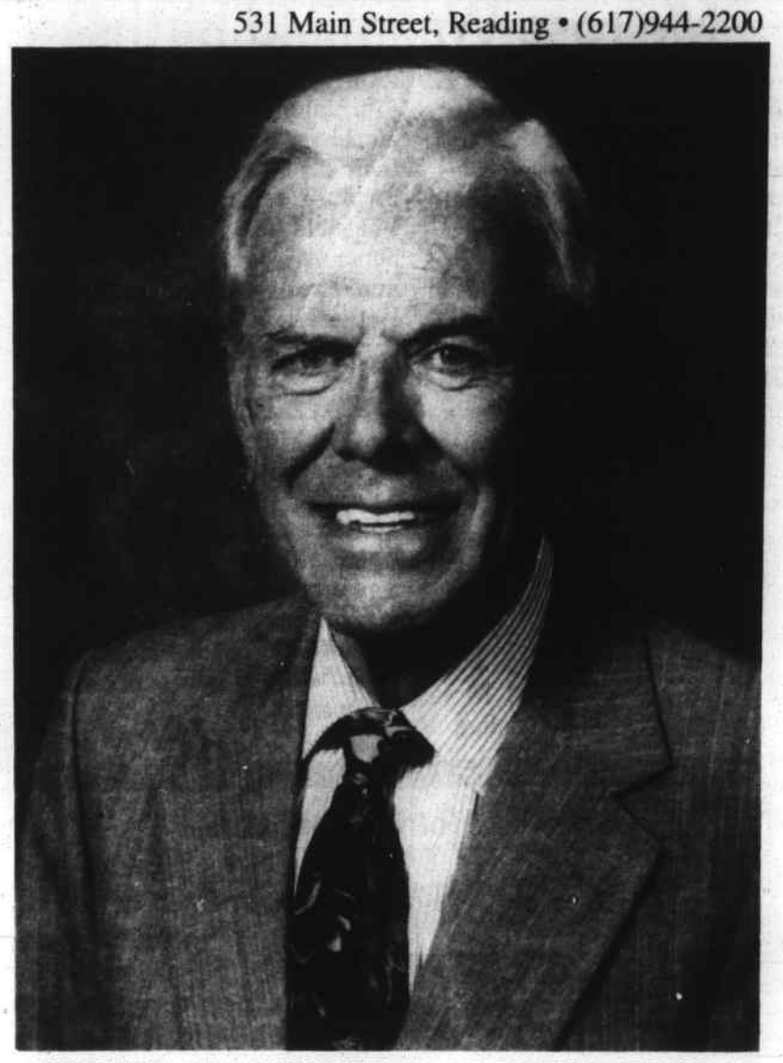

A number of cities and towns in the area are planning similar programs.

"Jack" Galvin's distinguished military career was truly the stuff that legends are made of. After passing an entrance exam for the Military Academy at West Point, he received an appointment to the Academy from the late Massachusetts Governor Paul Dever. The rest is history as Galvin rose to the position held by General Dwight D. Eisenhower during WWII before "Ike" became America's 33rd President in 1953.

In recent years Wakefield's annual Veterans Day Services have been held on the "eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month" at the Wakefield Junior High School's Veterans Memorial Auditorium after the town's former veterans agent Barbara Conrad decided to move the services indoors from its original site by the War Monuments on the town's Upper Common.

To her credit Conrad managed to convince Wakefield High School's director of instrumental FORMER COMMANDER OF NATO FORCES AND TUFT'S UNIVERSITY'S FLETCHER SCHOOL OF LAW AND DIPLOMACY DEAN JOHN R. GALVIN will lead the region's Veterans Day Services Saturday when he returns to his hometown of Wakefield as the featured speaker at the town's Veterans Day Services. The annual program will be held at the Galvin Junior High School's Veterans Memorial Auditorium at 11 am.

Card collector's show in Wilmington

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Sports cards, or more generally known as baseball cards were those things you thought you should save for a lifetime but your mother made you throw them away.

If it is any satisfaction, this is a case where mother was wrong.

However, do not despair, you can start up your collection again if you want.

Of course the price will be a lot more expensive then the nickle pack of gum you originally bought along with five or six cards. But for more information, the Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington is the place to be this weekend as the Tenth Annual Greater Boston Sports Collectors Club Convention holds forth for 2 1/2 days.

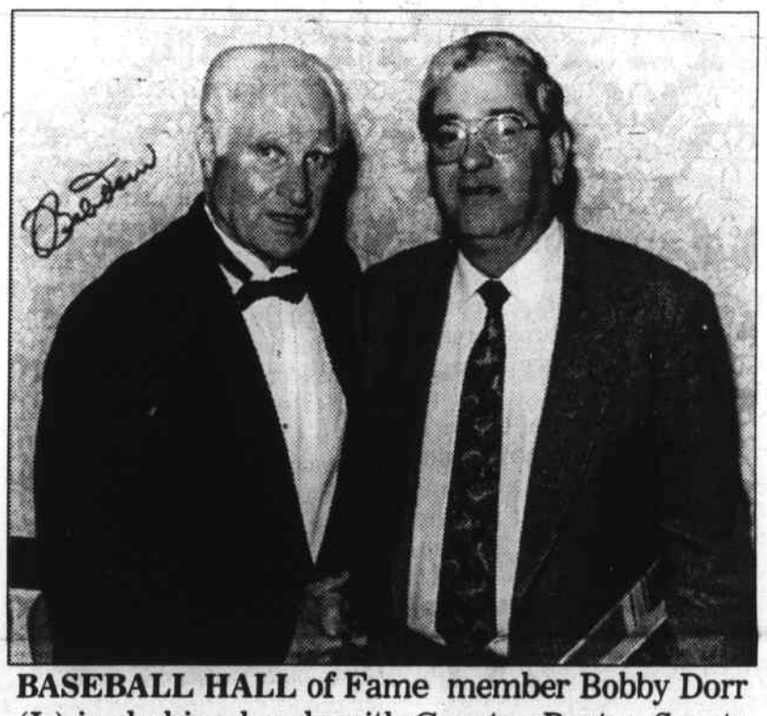

Club President Bill Carvalho promises that this year "will be the best ever with 200 quality collectors from across the U.S."

In an interview, Carvalho stressed that the Convention is focused on collectors of every type of sports cards. He did note that some dealers will also be present, but the focus is on collectors and fun.

Carvalho said, "This has always been a collectors showplace instead of a dealers showplace."

"It is a place where kids get dropped off by their parents and allowed to roam," he added.

BASEBALL HALL of Fame member Bobby Dorr (L) is shaking hands with Greater Boston Sports Collectors Club President Bill Carvalho. Doerr was a guest at Sixth Annual Collectors Convention. This year's guests will be Bobby Thomson and Ralph Branca on Saturday. Sunday's guest is Harmon Killebrew.

Great American Smokeout November 16

On Thursday, November 16, the American Cancer Society will sponsor its 19th Annual Great American Smokeout The day America takes a break from tobacco.

Statistics show that nearly 90% of smokers tried their first cigarette before the age of 18 (nearly 40% before the age of 14!). Also, nearly one half of young people who smoke as few as three cigarettes go on to become regular smokers, developing a lifetime addiction.

This year, due to concern over the increased incidence in teenage smoking, the Smokeout will focus on involving school children in a new aspect of the anti-smoking campaign, the first ever nationally organized Great American Smoke Scream!

This event is designed to encourage pre-teens to scream out against smoking and prove they are "too smart to start." At precisely 2 pm Eastern time, students in middle and junior high schools across the United States will join in a seven second scream to climax a week long campaign against teen smoking during which teachers and principals will incorporate tobacco education into their daily classes.

About The Towns
by Phyllis Nissen

If you see Gregory Silvano...

...say thanks

For the best and most subtle "give your paperperson a tip" incentive we've ever seen.

And he never even says the 't' word.

"Good morning," says the note, in large enough, clear enough, sharp enough print for the sleepiest of readers to easily decipher.

"It's probably time that I introduce myself," he writes, in a letter that makes good graphic sense.

"I hope you enjoy the early delivery, and I hope you find the service dependable. The time that you have received your paper the last couple of days is the approximate time you can always expect your paper. Monday through Saturday, between 3:30 a.m. and 5:15 a.m., and Sunday before 8:00 a.m.

"I have been delivering the paper to the location that was given to me when I started the route. If you would like your paper at a different door, or if you have any other problems, please just leave a note where I can see it. (It is pretty dark at 4:00 a.m.)

"As for me, I am doing this route, as well as ... (another) ... until I finish my degree at UMASS LOWELL. Assuming my car can handle another two years of this, I am in this for the long run.

"Have a good day, and enjoy your paper"

We assume he's majoring in communications, psychology or advertising. If so: automatic 'A.'

P.S. Did we mention that the approximately 3.5- by 6.5-inch optimistically-sized manila envelope has been computer-printed with the Silvano name and a 'thank-you' in italics?

Chamber music

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is offering members-only discounts on AT&T service.

Music to members' ears is "Resources for New Business," a starter kit for new businesses which includes the following topics: working with lawyers and accountants; global marketing; and selecting investment stock. Those who participate in AT&T's "Profit by Association" program and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, will receive a quarterly newsletter updating the latest rulings on small businesses, handling tax law changes, new trends, and industry-specific topics.

Members will be eligible for discounts on cellular phones, office equipment and supplies, payroll, printing, and subscriptions. AT&T supports these programs through a resource center open Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to midnight.

AT&T "EasyReach 500" service is a personal phone number which AT&T assigns for life; AT&T-Chamber membership brings with it a discount on this service, on other long distance business services as well as the presumably welcome option of giving your number out to customers, business associates and family members so they'll always know where to find you. Those who desire may program the service with up to three easily reprogrammable destinations.

Also: because toll-free 800 numbers are quickly disappearing, prefix 888 will be assigned early next year, and a nationwide education program has begun, stressing the following: 880 is good news - easy, affordable and interchangeable with 800 only in the sense of continuing members-only discounts.

For more information, call the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce at 508-657-7211.

What? No toll-free number?

Veteran's Day

music Miss Kimberly Smith and the school's vocal music and theatre director Mr. Ronald Chibaro to commit to the town's annual Veterans Day services. Every year Smith's talented high school concert band is joined in a spectacular "Musical Tribute to America's Veterans" by members of the Wakefield Choral Society, that was founded by Chibaro.

In October 1991, the junior high school was dedicated as the Galvin JHS. to honor one of the Wakefield School System's most prominent alumni. Jack Galvin, who graduated with Wakefield High's Class of '47, traveled from NATO headquarters in Brussels, Belgium that day and the Commander of the world's largest fighting force was greeted on the school's front lawn by Smith's award winning Wakefield High School Marching Band and the school's 7th and 8th grade students.

Veterans Day History

World War I was described as being "The war to end all wars" when it ended November 11, 1918 at 11 o'clock in the morning. Four months later, between March 15-17, 1919, the American Legion was created in Paris, France by members of World War I's American Expeditionary Forces. And within a year's time hundreds of American Legion Posts began spouting up across the American countryside.

Wakefield's Corporal Harry E. Nelson American Legion Post 63 received its Post Chapter on June 26, 1919. The Wakefield Post is one of 373 American Legion Department of Massachusetts Posts including 65 Posts from Middlesex County. That's an astonishing number when you think about it because the state's Legion Posts exceed the Commonwealth's 351 cities and towns by 22.

This Saturday, Post 63 members will be joining American veterans organizations every where to pay tribute to millions of their country's World War II veterans during the 50th Anniversary of the end of that horrific war in 1945.

Veterans Day and Memorial Day are two national holidays that are cherished by millions of American Veterans because the majority of those brave men and women understand better than most what the words "the cost of freedom" and "the cost of peace" truly mean.

The cost of peace

It was only four days ago that the entire world was reminded of those costs.

The cost of peace claimed its latest victim last Saturday when the State of Israel's honored veteran and honored peacemaker, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, was shot and killed within an hour after he had addressed a massive peace rally.

Area Veterans Day Services

Veterans Day Services have been scheduled throughout the Middlesex East area this week.

Lynnfield's Veterans Agent Neil Restani said that town's services will be held a couple of days early this year at 11 am Thursday on the Town Common.

The City of Woburn's annual Veterans Day Parade will get under way at Central Square at 10:30 am Saturday. The parades chief marshall is the City's American Legion Post 101 Commander James McPartlin. This year's parade will be featuring World War II Veterans on the 50th Anniversary of their service to their country. The WW II Vets will march in the first of the parades three divisions.

The parades music will be provided by the Woburn City Band and the Woburn High School Marching Band and the combined bands will play the National Anthem during the 11 am Veterans Day Program on Woburn Common.

Winchester's Aberjona Post 3719 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is sponsoring that community's annual parade and services. The parade marches off at 10:15 am from Laraway Road travels up Church Street to Waterfield Road's Lincoln School's War Memorial for a wreath laying ceremony.

The parade will then continue through Winchester Center to Town Hall for the official Veterans Day Service. The Winchester High School Band directed by Priscilla Miller will provide the day's music.

In Burlington, American Legion Post 273 and the Allied Veterans Council are working cooperatively in sponsoring their town's Veterans Day Services. Burlington's program begins at 9 am on the Town Common when the Burlington and Wilmington Black Rose Artillery raise the the American Flag.

The official ceremony begins at the same location at 10 am where the Burlington High School Band will be performing musical selections.

Wilmington's annual Veterans Day Parade is sponsored by the town's Lyons Club, American Legion Post 136 and the VFW as well as the Marine Corps League's Detachment 583.

The parade that features a number of bands, including the Wilmington High School Matching Band, the UMass Lowell Marching Band and the Stuart Highlanders Scottish Bagpipe Band, will get under way at 9:30 am from Wilmington Ford and march to the Wilmington Common's WW II Monument for the towns Veterans Day Service.

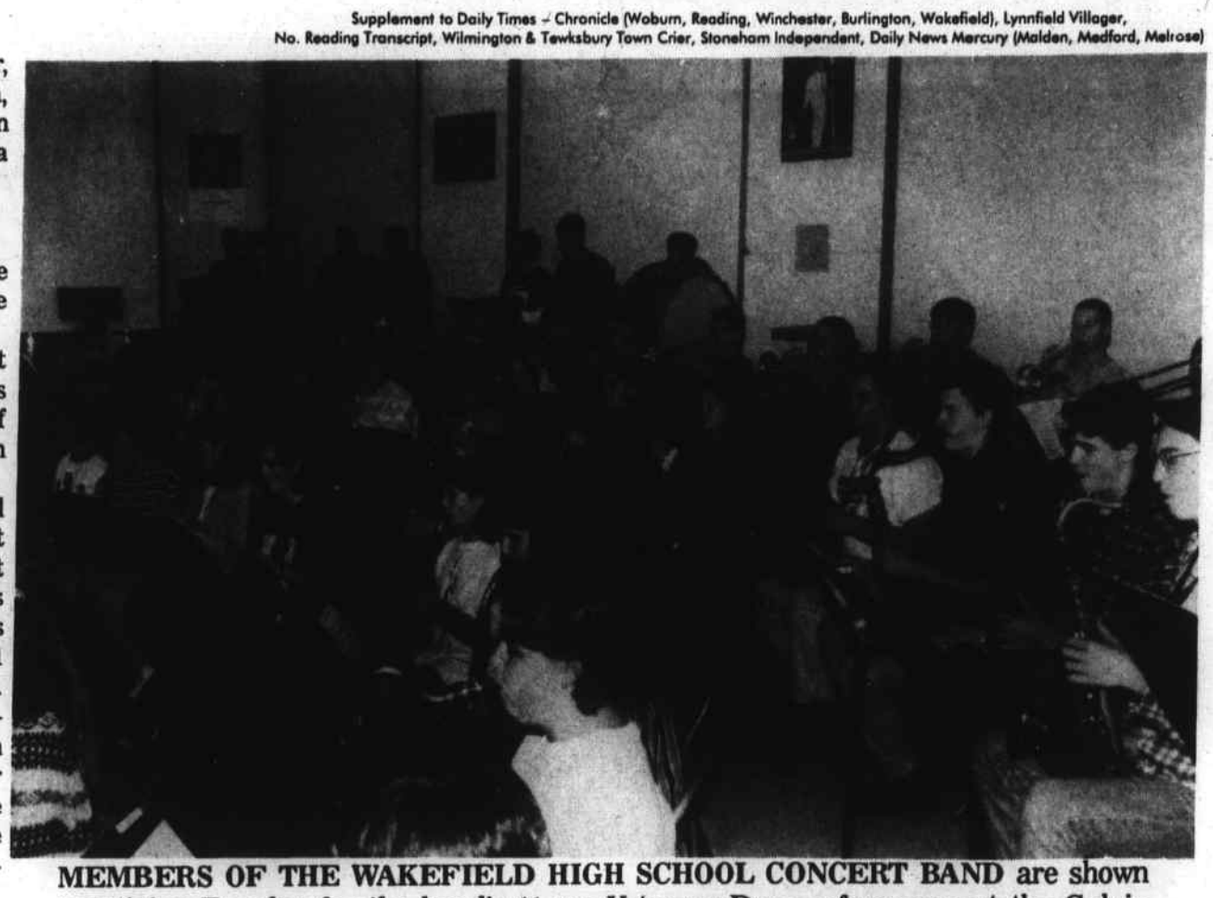

In the town of Tewksbury's Veterans Day Services are at 11 am at the Wynn Middle School where an Honor Guard and Firing Squad from VFW Post 8164 will participate in a 50th Anniversary tribute to WW II Veterans.

Another service will follow immediately at the Tewsksbury State Hospital's Veterans Center that's located next to the middle school. A United States Flag that was donated by U.S. Congressman Marty Meehan will be dedicated at the Center.

A collation will be held at 1 pm at the town's VFW Post located on Vernon Street.

Although the town of Reading held an official town Veterans Day Service on the Town Common for the first time in 28 years last November, according to Gerald Horton, from the town's VFW Post 685 and its DAV's Thomas F. Hayes Memorial Chapter 37, this year's Veterans Day Services will be held at 11 am Saturday at American Legion Post 62 and at 7:30 pm at VFW Post 685.

The town's DAV Chapter will participate at the DAV's annual service on the third floor of the Sate House in Boston at 8:30 am Saturday morning and at the State's Veterans Day Ceremony held in the Hall of Flags.

MEMBERS OF THE WAKEFIELD HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT BAND are shown practicing Tuesday for the band's 11 am Veterans Day performance at the Galvin Junior High School's Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The 84-member band is conducted by WHS director of instrumental music Kimberly Smith. The Concert Band will join the 75-member Wakefield Choral Society conducted by David Morrow in a spectacular "Musical Tribute to America's Veterans" Saturday morning. The Chorus' repertoire includes a stirring rendition of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" while the band's offerings include a medley of American Military Service songs entitled "Armed Forces on Parade" and "Farandole." The town's annual Veterans Day Service will conclude when 15 members of the Wakefield High School Marching Band's trumpet section play their version of the National Anthem.

Card show

From S-1

Carvalho notes that many times a kid's interest may spark the interest in the parent, also. He explained that a parent might come into the show with the child and see the card of a former hero. The parent will buy it and will start his or her own collection.

According to Carvalho, many females are getting into the sports card collecting hobby.

As always, autograph sessions will be a part of the show. On Saturday, November 11, the two people responsible for the "shot heard round the world," former New York Giant outfielder, Bobby Thompson, and former Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, Ralph Branca, will be present.

For those not up on baseball history, in 1951, the Dodgers and the Giants tied for first place in the National League. A playoff game was held.

In the bottom of the ninth Thompson hit a three run homer dubbed as the "shot heard round the world" off of Branca. The Giants won the game and went on to the World Series.

A copy of a commemorative bat from the game will be on sale at the show.

On Sunday, November 12, Harmon Killebrew will add his name to the long list of Hall of Famers who have been at the Convention.

Carvalho said that other Hall of Fame members who have attended are: Bob Feller; Bob Lemon; Luke Appling; Johnny Mize; Eddie Matthews; Bobby Doerr; Enos "Country" Slaughter; Bob Gibson; Whitey Ford; Johnny Pesky; and, Frank Malzone.

"It is the biggest show in New England by far. It is a happening," according to Carvalho.

A part of the over 6,000 people expected to attend are members of the several youth groups and students of local schools that were notified by the Show's committee.

Carvalho reminisced about the 10 year history of the show. One of his big thrills was about four years ago when a youngster who used to come into Carvalho's former shop, Bill's Card Shop, came to the show.

"He was talking to my wife, Clare," Carvalho said, "and all of a sudden he pulled out a drawing of the shop showing the counters and pennants."

He added, "One of my biggest thrills is to see the children of

CHILDREN SELF ESTEEM GROUPS OFFERED

Helping children gain self confidence and develop a sense of self worth are goals of the "Children's Self Esteem Group," a program offered by Boston Regional Medical Center (BRMC). It is designed to help children; ages 4 to 12 form positive relationships with other and improve communication and coping skills.

Individuals experiencing low self esteem often feel dissatisfied or feel that they cannot make themselves understood. Children with low self esteem may have poor relationships with parents, siblings of peers. They may appear to be quiet or withdrawn, are afraid to try new things or may "act out" at home or at school. Parents of these children may feel that their youngsters are not working to their full ability or are struggling to be prefect.

Groups will meet in the late afternoon or early evenings. Most will be held in Stoneham. However, some will also be offered at BRMC's new North Reading satellite clinic for the convenience of families who live in this area. Participants must be committed to attending 15 weeks of sessions.

The odds are in your favor

PSST! Tell everyone

The Reading High Drama Club is holding the raffle to beat all raffles.

First, consider the prizes: two first-class, round-trip Delta Airlines tickets to anywhere in the continental U.S., including Alaska, Mexico and the Caribbean.

Then, consider the odds: the prize is about as good as you're going to get in any raffle - international, national, you name it. But the event is local. Your chances of winning are very high, extremely high ... sky high.

Amazing as it is, considering the grand prize and the odds of winning it, there are even other prizes: second prize is a one-night stay for two at The Williams Inn in Williamstown. Third prize is dinner and a show for two at the DECO Boston Theater in Woburn. And fourth prize is a Zenith electric train set.

Kids away at college? Buy them a gift book (six for $5) and send them a telegram when they win. Winners must be 18 or accompanied by a parent or guardian. Maybe you'll be the chosen adult.

It's too early for stocking stuffers, but think of the fun you could have announcing the winner at Thanksgiving dinner: the drawing will take place on November 21st.

To get your tickets, call Reading High at 944-8200, any member of the Reading High Drama Club, any member of PSST! (Parents Supporting Student Theater), drama club director Bill Endslow, or parent Cathy Mandolese.

The Eaton run

Work has already begun on the system-wide goals which the Winchester School Committee has adopted for the 1995-96 school year.

The goals, according to the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," were proposed by new Superintendent of Schools Carol Eaton and evaluated by SchoolCom members. The goals encompass four areas of evaluation and include "indicators for success."

This year's four areas of evaluation are:

1) developing practices and processes for restructuring the system in alignment with educational reform;

2) implementing technology and its applications;

3) actively evaluating and ensuring involvement of all constituent groups in the renovation study; and

4) providing professional development opportunities in alignment with the system's goals and educational reform guidelines.

Each of those goals consists of several specific areas to be addressed, such as: establishing learning outcomes for graduating high school students and eventually for students leaving fifth and eighth grades; establishing a plan to deliver 990 hours of learning to all students; assessing curriculum frameworks; and establishing curriculum councils to facilitate these goals.

To implement technology into the curriculum, for example, Eaton plans to incorporate keyboarding and word processing into the learning outcomes, establish an on-line school- and community-wide calendar, establish e-mail and Internet access on networked computers, and revive the Technology Steering Committee to discuss further implementation activities.

"A huge success"

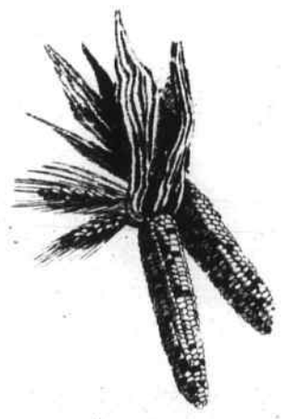

According to Coordinator of Volunteers Emily Rubenstein and Board of Directors President Lisa Curran Metz, the recent Melrose Adult Spelling Bee - sponsored by The Bridge, a school-community partnership, was a huge success.

Not only, report Rubenstein and Metz, did the event raise much needed funds, participants and spectators enjoyed an evening of serious spelling mixed with good humor and high spirits.

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

ANTHONY MANCONI

There's an old expression, "There's no one with endurance like the man or woman who sells insurance." Well Folks, some stock brokers have them all beat.

One of them called my Aunt Nora every night for a week, trying to sell her what he said was a, "Sure Fire" investment. He wouldn't take my Aunt's "No" for an answer. His final pitch was, "Buy twenty shares of this stock and, I guarantee it will TRIPLE in value in 10 years."Aunt Nora told him, "Listen here Sonny, I'm 89 years old, I don't even buy "Green Bananas!"

For those of you in the stock market, here are a few tips, Get in on the ground floor, Otis Elevator is going UP. Potato Chips is a Wise investment. Mack Trucks are good for the long haul. And, designer Jeans are going to SPLIT.

Folks I don't know why some people drive to a brokers office in their BMW's, Cadillac, or Mercedes to get financial advice from someone who came to work on a bus caring a brown bag lunch.

Sidney Levine told me that his wife Lena misses him almost every night but, her "AIM" is getting better.

Boy they sure know how to hurt a guy at the Stone Zoo. An attendant wouldn't let me OUT until I showed him proper identification.

I was told that my grandfather was on the police force in the old country. He wouldn't take a quarter, if he couldn't fold it, he wouldn't take it.

Chris Corbelle said, "anyone who goes to a psychiatrist ought to have his head examined."

At an anniversary party, Tony Zankowski told his lovely wife Dolores, "thanks for twelve wonderful years dear." Tony then whispered to me, "Chipper, I've been married for 40 years."

Kathy and I won first prize at a Halloween Party and we were not wearing costumes or masks.

Officer John Daigle is very tactful. He stopped a woman motorist and while he was looking over her license she asked, "what the heck did you stop me for?" John replied, "I'm sorry, I thought you were too "young " to drive."

Sign on a Fire Hydrant, "Park now Pay later." Joe Ravida wants to marry a girl whose birthday is February 29th so he will only have to buy her a birthday gift once every four years.

Angelo Quagenti gave his wife a thirteen diamond present. A deck of Bicycle Playing Cards.

Folks, I find that parents who have wonderful children generally are wonderful parents.

Dennis Tully's father asked Dennis why he was kept after school? "I didn't know where the Azores are," Dennis replied. "O"kay," Mr. Tully said, "But next time remember where you put things."

Blackie Vega's credit rating was upgraded to Triple Z. It means, watch out, even when Blackie wants to pay cash.

Teacher Marie Cole asked Joe Ravida, "What was Lois IVth chiefly responsible for?" "I think it was for "Louis the fifteenth" Joe Ravida replied.

Folks, behind every successful man there's a proud wife and a surprised mother in law.

I love those humorous bumper stickers, like, "I owe, I owe, so off to work I go."

"Watch my rear end, not hers," and, "Please, Slow down Heaven can wait."

The insurance adjuster asked Sonny Pearlman, "when did you first notice that your roof was leaking?" "At dinner," Sonny replied, "when it took me an hour to finish my soup."

The police radio blared out, "cars four and five, investigate a call that numerous, 'Top-Less' bathers are in the vicinity of Kelly's on the beach."

"Well Folks, police cars in a 20 mile radius responded and, indeed there were hundreds of Top less bathers -"MEN!"

Some rules border on the ridiculous like, Foreman to a brick layer. "Hey! what do you think you're doing?" "I'm sharpening my pencil." 'Well the Foreman shouted, "don't let anyone see you doing it that's a carpenter's job!"

A man rang my doorbell and asked me, "would you like to make a contribution to the, Old Ladies Home?" "Sure," I replied, "take my mother in law".

Children's Film fest

The New England Children's Film and Video Festival will usher in its 6th season of award winning internationally produced films at several Boston area locations starting November 11, and running through the 19.

In addition, a retrospective of films from the past 100 years of cinema will wave its way through the Festival schedule, starting with a selection of silent films with live musical accompaniment at the "Gala Opening and Awards Reception" on November 11th at Harvard University.

The Festival, a project of the Center For Children's Media (CCM), provides a venue for film makers who produce educational and or entertaining films for children locally, nationally and internationally. Works selected for screening follow strict guidelines set-up by Festival administrators and are previewed by a committee of parents, film professionals, child psychologists and most importantly children. The committee looks for films that enhance our understanding of the world, are provocative and uplifting and that are free of racism, unnecessary violence, stereotypes and gender bias. That said, the Festival will showcase over 60 films from 15 countries, including France, Germany, Denmark, Latvia, England, Iran and Canada.

One of the most important components of the Festival is the school program. Elementary schools from all over the Greater Boston area will be invited to participate in five days of screenings at the Boston Public Library, Copley Branch from November 13-17. These film programs will provide school teachers and students in

MOVIES

"Home for the Holidays", Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn

"Home for the Holidays" starring Holly Hunter, Robert Downey, Jr., Anne Bancroft, Dylan McDermott, Charles Durning, Geraldine Chaplin, Steve Guttenberg, Clair Danes, Cynthia Stevenson. Directed by Jodie Foster. Screenplay by W. D. Richter. Produced by Peggy Rajski, Foster. Rated PG-13.

Jodie Foster's second effort as a director is and isn't what you expect. It is a quirky comedy, much as the ads lead you to believe. It is also an unexpectedly honest and poignant portrayal of family relationships.

Based on a Boston Phoenix short story by Chris Radant, it takes place over Thanksgiving weekend. The eldest daughter of the Larson clan (Holly Hunter,) who is stressed from her life as a single mom and is suffering from the flu, drags herself home for a 36-hour holiday reunion she is dreading.

Her parents (Anne Bancroft and Charles Durning) can be overbearing, her aunt (Geraldine Chaplin) is dotty, and her sister (Cynthia Stevenson) is a martyr. Add to this mix an odious brother-in-law (Steve Guttenberg), her obnoxious daughter and Hunter's favorite brother (Robert Downey, Jr.), whom only she adores.

It's a tempestuous stew, and with the exception of Guttenberg, who plays his character as a one-note grump, the chemistry and the performances are perfect. What pushes this picture past the boundaries of cute comedy is the unwavering streak of honesty running through each scene. Everyone at this gathering is stressed, not just Hunter's character. The kids all wonder how they ended up in such a strange family, and the parents think their kids are unhappy.

We can thank W. D. Richter for a screenplay filled with realistic dialogue and characters. Bancroft and Durning may still talk to their kids as if they are young children, but they do so with affection. When Stevenson, as the one daughter who remained in their hometown, has her chance to finally blow off steam, it is patently clear why she is so resentful and angry. Even a brief exchange between Hunter and her sad sack of an ex-boyfriend, David Strathairn, is rift with emotion and humor, though it lasts only a few minutes.

Perhaps the best aspect of this flick is that Foster subtly hands us information about each clan member. Some of their strangeness and hostility is humorous and some of it is touching, but she makes sure none of it is beyond the pale. Foster also culled very strong performances from her cast, especially Hunter. Instead of being indomitable or adorable, as we've seen her is in the past, Hunter is kind of worn out and sweet, a combination that suits this ensemble film. Though Bancroft, and Dylan McDermott as Downey's friend, are both stand-outs, it is Durning who is the surprise here. It is he who quietly, lovingly puts everything into perspective for Hunter before she goes home. It's a wonderful little scene in a film chock full of silly, meaningful, and even uncomfortable moments that underscore the universality of family problems.

Short Takes

Powder may strain toward mythic proportions, but it has no more substance than its wispy name. Sean Patrick Flanery plays an albino teenager who was kept at home all his life, living in the basement like some horrible family secret until discovered by local authorities. The big problem is that we are told things, such as Powder's weird affinity for electricity, but never why. We are also given no emotional connection to this story, which is often strained or unintentionally funny. And then there is that odd albino makeup, which makes Flanery look like a deranged mime instead of a person lacking pigmentation. Rated PG-13. * 1/2

Now and Then is like a big scoop of vanilla ice cream. It's pleasant, sweet and familiar - but nothing special. Melanie Griffith, Demi Moore, Rosie O'Donnell and Rita Wilson are old friends who recall the summer of 1970, when they were young teens. No thought is put into the adult characters, who seem to be there just to propel the plot. At the heart of the film, which is told via flashback, is some wonderfully realistic dialogue and four distinctive and interesting girls. It's endearing, but lacks focus, as there doesn't seem to be a point. Rated PG-13. 1/2

Copycat is another movie about serial killers who stalk women, but this time it is women who set out to catch the psycho. Holly Hunter is both cute and steely as the detective who teams up with criminal psychologist Sigourney Weaver to track a San Francisco-based nut trying to imitate all the "greats" in the serial killer hall of fame. The flick has a neat gimmick involving Weaver and there are several edge-of-your-seat moments, but there is that general problem of relying on a story in which women are mutilated as entertainment. Still, this is a well-acted and well-crafted thriller. Rated R.

Three Wishes is a minor but cute fairy tale that tries to enchant, but travels down territory everyone but kids may find too familiar. Patrick Swayze is a mysterious drifter who enters the life of a widow and her two sons at a time when they really could use a helping hand. The film makes a good case for listening to your own heart, as the story is set in 1955, when conformity was a way of life. It's also fun to see a traditional European folk tale updated, even if it is a little too white bread and relies on too many cinematic cliches. If nothing else, director Martha Coolidge gives the film a pleasing, slightly magical look. Rated PG. 1/2

How to Make an American Quilt is a serious movie in which women finally have meaty roles. It is also as formulaic as all those testosterone driven action movies pandering to male audiences. Recently engaged Winona Ryder, terrified of commitment, flees to her grandmother's house for the summer, where the ladies are making her a wedding quilt. Each square represents the great love in the life of the woman sewing it, and we learn their story via flashback. Disappointingly lightweight, the film never reaches any real emotional conclusions nor draws us into these women's stories. Great cast, though. Rated PG-13 **

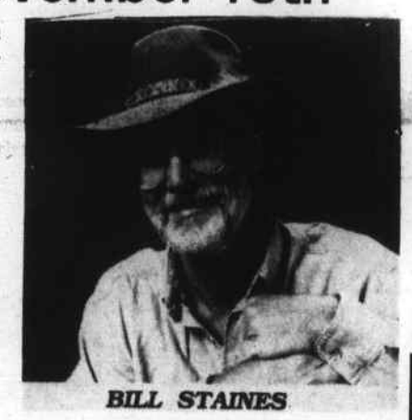

Strange Days is a compelling adventure from director Kathryn Bigelow that is smart, hip and actually has something to say about race relation in America. Ralph Fiennes is a former cop dealing in blackmarket gizmos that let you feel another's experiences. Angela Bassett is the best friend who helps him when trouble comes his way. Though it ends up falling into thriller mode, this is a cool and edgy trip that breaks out of the conventional sci-fi mold. Rated R. 1/2

Assassins is one of those high concept, low expectation films. Sylvester Stallone is a veteran killer trying to outwit Young Turk Antonio Banderas while trying to score enough money to retire. Pity Julianne Moore, who is made to look like Heidi on a bad day, while the guys get to shoot up the scenery without mussing their designer threads. Too big, too noisy, too long, and too silly. Rated R. *1/2

To Die For is a tart little satire of the Pamela Smart murder case that skewers American culture as it makes us laugh, and cringe. Nicole Kidman is the dense but manipulative weather girl who wouldn't let a little thing like murder keep her from becoming a star. Director Gus Van Sant not only brings her story to life with gleeful black humor, but deftly underscores our dopey youth culture with both sarcasm and sadness. Kidman has finally come into her own as an actress; she is right on target as the icily controlling career gal. Rated R **

Dead Presidents follows a young black man on a journey that begins in the Bronx, swings through Vietnam and returns him, changed and deflated, to a neighborhood that offers him no respect for his tour of duty and little opportunity to make a life. Directed by the young and talented Hughes' Brothers ("Menace II Society"), we are treated to some fine individual scenes and a tight performance by Larenz Tate. However, the movie always feels like a movie, especially the climactic ending, which is too arch and stagey. This is still a powerful film, but it occasionally falters under its own weight. Rated R. ***

Folk singer Bill Staines at Linden Tree November 18th

BILL STAINES

Organizers of The Linden Tree Coffeehouse wish their friends an early Happy Thanksgiving with an extra special concert on November 18th with one of the most popular singers on the folk music circuit. Bill Staines, a performer for over twenty five years, will make his third trip to Wakefield, singing mostly his own songs from his repertoire of over 20 recordings.

Staines drives over 65,000 miles a year to sing at festivals, colleges, concerts, and coffeehouses. Radio and television appearances have included "A Prairie Home Companion," "Mountain Stage, and other PBS and local programs. One reviewer wrote. "His music is a slice of Americana, reflecting with the same ease, his feelings about the prairie people of the Midwest or the adventures of the Yukon."

Staines is a captivating and talented storyteller. His songs are balanced with wit, social commentary, and memorable tunes and rhythms. A number of his songs have been recorded by other artists including Nanci Griffith and Priscilla Herdman.

Opening the evening at 8 will be the Linden Tree's own folk band, "The Blunt Instruments" comprised of Wakefield's Paul Harty, Ed Britt, and Bill Knott and Jim Bradley on bass. Ed Britt was the 1995 winner of Lowell's Fiddle & Banjo Contest in the old time banjo division. This was the third time he won the title. The group plays an eclectic mix of folk tunes from sea chanties, contemporary and traditional tunes with a variety of instruments from guitar, mandolin, banjo & fiddle. This is their first local performance after a summer of several outdoor concerts on the North Shore.

Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door beginning at 7:30. The Linden Tree coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian Universalist Church, 326 Main Street, Wakefield. For more information: 2460-2836.

Card show From S-4

my former customers coming to the show."

Carvalho is one of us that had a sports card collection as a kid, but lost it along the way. His interest was restored when his wife attended a flea market in New Jersey, where the family lived at the time.

Clare found a collector selling cards and bought a couple of packages. However, in case Bill became interested, she got the collectors name.

Bill did become interested and the next day he called the collector to make an appointment to buy more cards.

However, he remained a collector only for the next few years until the family moved back to Massachusetts.

Carvalho started to sell cards on the flea market circuit until he started to sell enough to open a store.

In 1979 he opened his first shop in Stoneham and later he moved to Reading.

He advises anyone that is thinking of getting into the business to be a sports fanatic first.

"There is nothing better than to make money at what you enjoy," Carvalho said.

According to Carvalho, about 12-13 years ago, five or six hard core collectors started to meet at their various houses, rotating each month. Soon other people started to attend the meetings and the need arose to find a meeting place.

This became the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in Reading. Carvalho said that the first meeting was in April, 1985 when 35 people showed up. The dues was $10 per year.

The following year the group held their first show at the Marriott in Burlington. Former Red Sox players Dick Radditz and Jim Lonborg were the autograph guests.

The 35 available tables were all sold out, with 1,000 to 1,500 people attending, and it was decided that the show needed a larger venue for the second year.

The search ended at the Shriners Auditorium and the Convention was extended to three days. Carvalho said that the highest attendance figures was the 5,600 figure from three years ago.

He notes that the attendance figures have dropped a little over the past few years. Last year was about 4,500 to 4,700 people.

"However, the hobby has seen an upswing over the last six months," Carvalho said.

He noted that Club is advertising in more local newspapers this year as well as in the collector's magazines, to let people know about the Show.

Collectors and dealers are expected from throughout the country and the proceeds of the show go to the Shriners Burn Clinic.

Carvalho said that the age of sports card collectors can virtually run from eight to eighty. He remembers one collector from the Stoneham shop who was eighty.

"He loved the old Boston Braves," Carvalho said.

Carvalho notes that any one interested in joining the Club can see him or any other member during the show, or call him at (617)944-1185.

Planning for next years show will start next week and although there are close to 250 active club members the same people same to always work on the show.

Carvalho thanked the people that staff the Autograph Committee, Hospitality Committee, Security Committee, Public Relations Committee and the Clean-up Committee. These 40 to 50 people Are the ones that make the show possible.

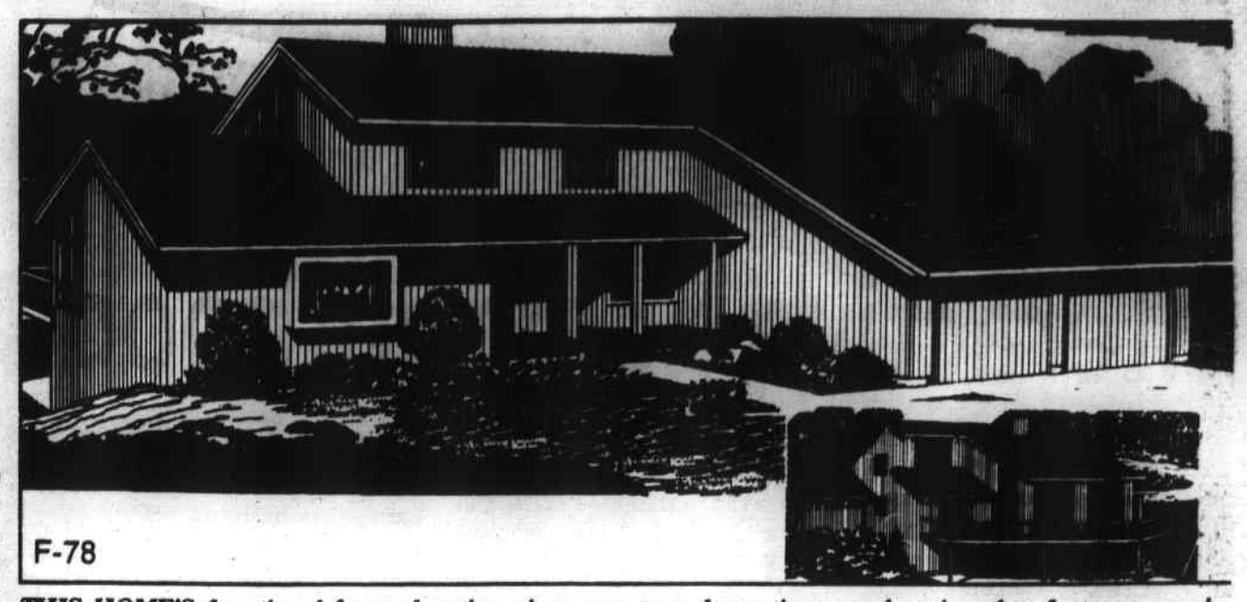

His only warning if you come to the show, is that it takes the sight of just one card to push some people, who are on the line, over the edge to becoming collectors.

Should you lease or buy your telephone?

An estimated 6 million people many of them senior citizens continue to lease their telephone. Misplaced trust in Ma Bell has elders and other consumers wasting hundreds of dollars for a phone that could be purchased for a one time cost of around $30.

"It is disgraceful," said Susan Weinstock of the American Association of Retired Persons. "Seven dollars a month (the charge for one the most popular models) is outrageous. Appalling, I cannot think of a circumstance when it makes sense for an individual to rent a phone at these prices." AT &T declined to reveal how much it earns on its phone rental business but did say it was a money maker.

With 6.5 million rental customers AT &T is the biggest company in the phone leasing business. Runner up GTE claims about 2 million customers. (AT&T has hiked its rental fees five times since 1984) Consumers who want to return their AT&T phones should take it to the phone center that's nearest to them (Call 1-800-858-3718 for a location).

Mystic Valley would also like consumers to know that they can contact the United Seniors Health Cooperative with questions, comments or stories at 1-800-280-0905. Or write to them at Seniors Telephone Project, United Seniors Health Cooperative, 1331 H Street, NW, Suite 500, Washington, DC 20005.

This "community within a community" has successfully met the needs of growing families looking to fulfill the adage, "...it takes a village to raise a child."

Sanborn Village boasts a very interactive neighborhood. Its residents have organized playgroups for its children. Neighbors take pride in their surroundings and enthusiastically decorate their homes for just about every holiday. One of the Village's more special times is Easter. The Easter Bunny's prints are found here each year but no one has been able to spot him.

"It takes a village to raise a child"

There are stately colonials, brick and stone villas, multi-level contemporaries, farmhouse style homes with open porches, and much more. Tips to help new buyer find the right house and location

1. Determine what you can afford for a home and how much you can borrow before you start to shop. Your first step should be to get prequalified by a reputable mortgage lender. By prequalifying for a mortgage loan, you will know exactly what you can afford to spend and borrow. Once you find the right home, you will be able to act quickly.

2. Identify what you and your family need in a home. Decide what features in terms of location, size, style and other amenities are important to you and are in your price range.

3. Search towns and neighborhoods. Finding the right home requires patience and determination. Identify locations that meet both your requirements and your budget. Looking through local real estate ads and visiting open houses can help you get a feel for the condition of houses in your price range. At some point, you may want to consult a real estate agent.

4. Shop for a mortgage loan. Visit or call reputable lenders comparing interest rates, points or fees charged and the lenders loan servicing policy. Choose a sensitive to your needs and concerns. The two most common types of mortgage loans are fixed and adjustable. The lender will help you choose the one that best fits your budget and personal goals.

Houses: Q and A

Q: We have hot-water baseboard heat and we get a constant knocking at both ends of the baseboard units when the heat is coming up and also when it's going down. Our house has upper and lower levels and a two-level heating system.

A: All piping materials expand and contract with temperature changes. A 50-foot length of copper pipe, any diameter, will expand in length more than one-half inch when the water inside is raised from 70 F to 170 F (typical for a baseboard heater). This expansion can train joints and cause leaks. It can also make elements bind against radiator covers and jam risers against floorholes, causing noise. Even when provisions are made during installation to absorb this expansion, some noise may still come from the baseboard units.

The noise is probably caused by the heat distribution pipes or connecting fins rubbing on their support brackets as the pipes expand when the heat is coming up and as they contract when the heat is going down.

This noise can usually be eliminated or reduced by inserting foam-rubber pads between the baseboard support brackets and the connector fins or distribution pipe, whichever is being supported. When inserting the pads, gently lift the heating pipes or fins, If you apply too much pressure, you can strain pipe joints and possibly crack them.

Q: Every winter the north slope of my cathedral ceiling leaks when the snow starts melting. It doesn't leak in the rain. My ceiling gets ruined and has to be retaped and painted. Do you have any suggestions?

A: You have a classic case of leakage caused by an ice dam. Ice dams begin when a layer of snow next to the roof melts. When this water freezes, a dam is created which causes further melted snow to accumulate in a pool. Roofs are designed to shed water, not to protect against standing water. Removing the snow from the roof is of course the best solution. Maintaining a "cold-roof" is another excellent alternative. By overinsulating the ceilings and ventilating the attic profusely, the roof-deck temperature will be lowered to the point where snow won't melt. Heating tapes along eaves and valleys can also help but ice dams may form farther up the roof.

Q: I recently moved to a newer house and found that the basement was damp. I was able to dry things out by running a dehumidifier for a few days. The problem I have is that mold keeps forming on the floor. How can I clean off this mildew and prevent it from forming again?

A: Mold and mildew spores are always present in the air and thrive in damp locations. A mold buildup is not very unusual in a new house due to the initial high moisture content of the building materials, which eventually dry out. To address your problem, clean mold and mildew from concrete and tiled floors and walls with a solution of one-half to 1 cup of household bleach to 1 gallon of water. Rinse with clear water then dry. Wear gloves and avoid skin contact while cleaning. Also, keep the dehumidifier running to reduce further moisture buildup.

Mulching great for the earth

(NU) - An estimated 20 percent of household waste dumped at landfills is lawn-related. From March to September, grass clippings and yard waste increase the volume of household waste by 25 to 30 percent.

With nearly a third of existing municipal solid waste landfills expected to be full in the next seven years, it's time to stop throwing away organic waste. That's where composting comes in. It's the process of letting nature transform organic materials - anything from manure and corn cobs to grass and soiled paper - into a humus material with countless environmental applications.

Compost returns organic materials to the soil, closing the recycling loop the way nature intended. It can be used in landscaping, horticulture, forestry, agriculture, mine reclamation, roadside erosion control, storm water treatment and wetlands restoration, to name a few. Mulch improves soil structure, helping retain moisture and minerals, and control pests and fungi.

News USA

Mulching with a blower/vac helps reduce landfill and provides nutrients for your lawn.

What can you do?

When you mow grass, gather leaves or do any yard work that results in organic waste, don't bag it and leave it in the trash. That fills up landfills even more and robs the environment of valuable nutrients.

Instead, consider creating mulch or compost. For grass, use a mulching mower or simply let clippings stay on the lawn. They'll slowly decompose, returning nitrogen and other nutrients to the soil.

After you've collected the leaves, simply dump them into a compost heap in a corner of your yard and let Mother Nature go to work.

Father a liver donor

Fundraisers to save Jacob's life

Jacob Scott Greenberg, son of Robin and Robert Greenberg of Malden, is in need of a liver transplant. Jacob is just 13 months old and a number of fundraising projects are planned this month to aid in the cost. They include: November 12, Bowl-A-Thon, Town Line Bowling, 1:00 pm to 4:00 pm; November 17, Jacob Night at Dockside Restaurant, 229 Centre Street, Malden, 7:00 pm; November 20, Benefit Fundraiser Dinner at Anthony's, 105 Canal Street, Malden, 7:00 pm.

JACOB SCOTT GREENBERG, son of Robin and Robert Greenberg of Malden, awaits a liver transplant.

When Jacob was eight weeks old, he was admitted to Children's Hospital in Boston with a distended belly. He spent two months in the hospital, approximately two weeks were spent in the Intensive Card Unit, as Jacob was in liver failure. Jacob was born with a rare metabolic disorder called Tyrosinemia. Tyrosinemia is caused by a deficiency of an enzyme; (predominantly in the liver) needed for the proper break down of protein. Absence of this enzyme allows the buildup of toxic products which damage several organs, causing signs and symptoms like liver failure, kidney failure, rickets, and eventually liver cancer. Nearly 100% of all children develop liver cancer at or about the age of two.

At this point, the standard treatment for Tyrosinemia is dietary treatment with a special low-protein diet. Although this may stabilize the disease it is never proven to prevent liver cancer.

Recently in Sweden, a group at Gothenburg University began studying an experimental medicine to prevent the accumulation of succinylacetone (toxic products.) The medicine is called N.T.B.C.

There have been no significant side effects at this point, and the medication is taken orally twice a day. Because N.T.B.C. is an experimental drug, there may be additional risks which are unknown at this time.

Jacob's parents signed all the papers for the experimental medicine and started Jacob on N.T.B.C. when he was just 10 weeks old. They had to do something to save his life, as he was in liver failure. Jacob is also on a special formula, low in protein, that his parents measure by grams and make for him every day.

Jacob is on a very restricted diet. He is only allowed 9 grams of protein, through food, a day. His parents must keep a daily chart of his protein intake They also make him his own bread, cookies, and cakes from low protein ingredients, which have to be specially ordered.

Jacob has been waiting for a cadaver liver in the Boston area for six months now. His parents were told the average wait in Boston is 1 to 1 1/2 years for a patient who is at home under a doctor's care.

Jacob is under the care of Doctor Mark Korson, metabolism, and Doctor Alan Leichtner, GI Services, at Children's Hospital in Boston. He is also under the care of his own pediatrician, Doctor Peter Masucci of Everett.

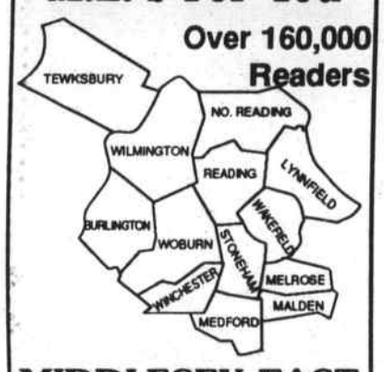

His parents recently heard of a fairly new procedure called Living-Related Liver Transplantation. It entails a relative of the patient, generally a parent with the same blood type as the patient, donating a piece of their liver. The liver is the only internal organ that can regenerate, it will grow back on the donor and it will grow along with the patient.

Knowing the severity of the high risk of liver cancer and the long wait for a cadaver liver, Robin and Bob feel that they have no option but to go with the Living-Related Liver Transplantation.

In February, Bob is going to donate a portion of his liver to save his son. They have been in touch with Doctor Jean Emond, in San Francisco, who has been very successful with this type of procedure. The procedure will be done at the University of California in San Francisco.

They plan on February for two reasons. One, Bob will receive his vacation time from work at the U.S. Post Office in Chelsea, as that is needed to maintain their insurance coverage. The second reason is that Bob will be in top shape for this delicate surgery. They have no idea how long they will be in San Francisco as everything depends on how soon the doctors will release Bob and Jacob.
